North Korea Starts Its Defense

Rok Forces Now 67 Miles North

TOKYO, Oct. 6 — (Friday) — Thousands of Allied troops massed below the 38th Parallel today for an all-out push into North Korea in support of South Korean forces which bumped into a stiff enemy counterattack-67 miles above the border.

The Red counter-assault, the first launched by North Koreans since Korean republican troops dashed across the border last Sunday, was in sub-battalion strength. It was repulsed three miles above Changjon, 43 miles below North Korea's major port of Wonsan.

The counter-assault was mounted despite a day-long pounding of Red positions in the area by American warplanes. Although the counter-attack was repulsed it checked the swift northward advance of the South Korean Third Division.

• • •

AN ENEMY battalion and a Red marine company halted South Korean Third Division spearheads in a furious battle which began at noon Thursday three miles above Changjon, International News Service War Correspondent Lee Ferrero reported.

In a dispatch received from that sector at 9:45 Thursday night, Ferrero said the fighting still raged and the North Koreans had not yet given ground.

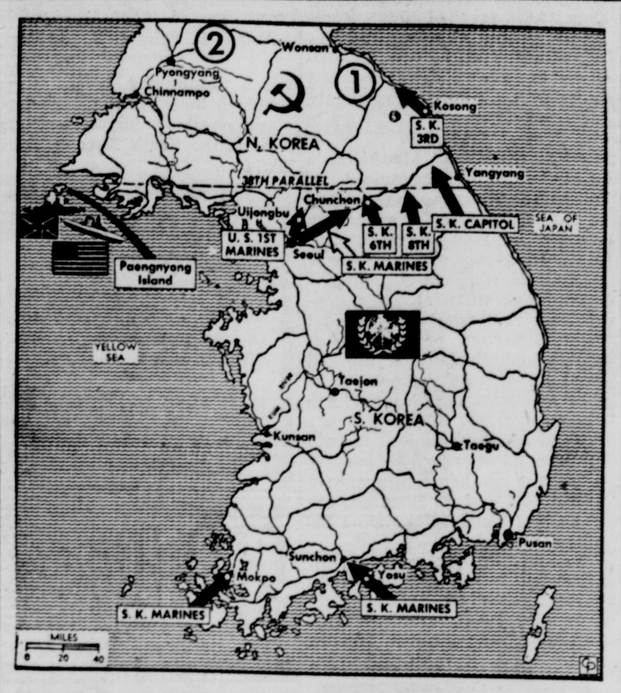

A threat to the Rok (Republic Of Korea) Third Division's deep flank was revealed in the dispatch which said a concentrated force of 1,200 Reds was fighting South Korean Capitol Division troops just west of Hwangpori. The latter North Korean town is 35 miles below Changjon.

U. S. Fifth Airforce pilots reported meanwhile that North Korean troops were attempting to reoccupy their former positions just above the parallel on the west side of the peninsula.

These positions, from which the Reds launched their invasion of South Korea June 25, were bombed and strafed by Fifth Airforce planes that flew 194 sorties over the area Thursday.

More than 100 miles to the southwest of Changjon, a U. S. First Marine Division armored column plunged through Mun-

NORTH KOREAN RED troops are reported massing at Wonsan (1), with reinforcements pouring into Pyongyang area (2) from north. The South Korean 3rd Division is forging northward along the coast from Kosong as other South Korean divisions (black arrows) press north to form a wider front. U. S. Marines captured Uijongbu, north of Seoul, as Paengnyong island was attacked with shelling and carrier planes. South Korean marine units made mop-up landings in the south.

RED MOTIONS VOTED DOWN

UN Expected To Give Mac Go Ahead In Korea Fight

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 5—The United Nations General Assembly was called today to take final action tomorrow on a Korean peace plan containing a UN mandate for occupation of North Korea.

The 60-member UN Political Committee approved the proposal drawn up by eight Western nations by an overwhelming 47-to-5 vote last night and forwarded it to the assembly for adoption. There were seven abstentions.

The negative votes were cast by the Russian bloc which had stumped for a "peace" plan submitted by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky. Lebanon, Egypt, Syria, Yemen, India, Afghanistan and Yugoslávia abstained. Indonesia, the newly-admitted UN member, did not participate in the balloting.

UN observers believe that if Gen. Douglas MacArthur is awaiting official endorsement to cross the 38th Parallel, he will have it from UN by tomorrow night. Only 40 votes are needed for adoption of the resolution.

• • •

BEFORE ADJOURNING until next week, the political committee, at the request of U. S. Delegate John Foster Dulles, decided to deal next with Secretary of State Acheson's proposal to give the assembly power to act within 24 hours against threats to the peace.

The proposal calls also for a standing United Nations army and roving UN peace patrol to observe endangered areas.

Vishinsky agreed after the political committee gave third place on the agenda to his own motion for a five-power peace plan condemning war incitement.

The Russian resolution calling for a cease-fire and withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea was defeated in a roll-call vote on which only the five Soviet bloc states stood up and voiced affirmative ballots. Eight member nations abstained.

The political committee also rejected Russia's resolution directing the assembly to call on the United States to halt all bombings and strafings of Korea. The vote was 51 to 5.

Price Increases To Bring More Taxes--Bricker

The warning was sounded by Sen. Bricker, (R) Ohio, who said he hoped such a general tax increase will not be necessary. Any further tax jump would come on top of an increase which went into effect last Sunday.

Bricker said that as the situation is now, he saw no reason for price controls. He said the administration has other means of staving off inflation, which he termed the nation's number one domestic problem.

Asked in an interiew how he thought the situation could be handled without price controls, Bricker replied:

"If sufficient money is taken off (the buying market) by taxes, if bonds are sold to the public instead of to the banks, and if there is proper allocation of

Cost Of War: 2954 Dead GIs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 — The Defense Department announced today that American casualties in Korea up to Sept. 29 totalled 20,756, including 2,954 dead.

Of the dead, 2,660 were killed in action. The others died of wounds. The wounded totaled 13,953 and 4,153 are listed as missing in action.

Of the total casualties, 19,290 were suffered by the Army, 89 by the Navy, 1,237 by the Marine Corps and 140 by the Airforce.

21 U.S. Sailors Missing As Ship Hits Red Mine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 — The Defense Department announced today that the U. S. Minesweeper Magpie sank off the east coast of Korea after striking a mine and that 21 members of the ship's crew are missing.

Twelve survivors of the Magpie's crew were picked up by a sister ship, the Minesweeper Merganser and taken to Pusan, Korea.

The Magpie, a wooden-hulled vessel 136 feet in length, struck a mine on her starboard side Oct. 1 near the city of Ch'Uksma-Dong and sank about two miles offshore.

The Magpie is the first U. S. naval vessel reported lost in the Korean war and third American ship to strike a mine off Korea. The other two, the Destroyers Brush and Mansfield, were damaged but made port safely.

Eleven men were killed, three missing and 10 wounded from the Brush. The Mansfield suffered no fatalities, but seven men were injured.

Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, chief of naval operations, recently told the House Armed Services Committee that numerous mines of Russian-make have been floating in Korean waters.

BRONX BOMBERS PLATE SINGLE RUN

Yankees Take Lead Over Whiz Kids In Second Battle Of World Series

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5—The mighty New York Yankees, veterans at winning world championships, held a 1-0 lead here this afternoon in the top of the third inning of the second game of the World Series against the underdog Philadelphia Phillies. The Bronx Bombers plated a single run in the top of the second inning.

Starting lineups for today's second game of the 1950 World Series between the Yankees and the Phillies:

Yankees	Phillies
Woodling, lf	Waitkus, 1b
Rizzuto, ss	Ashburn, cf
Berra, c	Sisler, lf
Di Maggio, cf	Ennis, rf
Mize, 1b	Jones, 3b
Brown, 3b	Hamner, ss
Bauer, rf	Seminick, c
Coleman, 2b	Goliat, 2b
Reynolds, p	Roberts, p

Before-game ceremonies today were limited to the playing of the National Anthem.

Play-by-play of the game follows.

FIRST INNING

YANKEES: Woodling beat out a hit to short. Seminick went back to the third base stands to take Rizzuto's foul popup. Berra dropped a single into left sending Woodling to third. DiMaggio popped to Goliat on the outfield grass. Woodling fell down between third and home, but slid back to third safely. Mize fouled to Seminick. No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

PHILLIES: Coleman threw out Waitkus. Ashburn lined a hit which Bauer dived for but could not hold and it went for a double. Sisler fanned. Coleman threw out Ennis. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

SECOND INNING

YANKEES: Brown lined out to Ashburn. Bauer fouled to Jones. Coleman walked. Reynolds sliced a single to right sending Coleman to third. Woodling beat out an infield hit to score Coleman and send Reynolds to second. Rizzuto flied to Ashburn. One run, two hits, no errors, two left.

The scene moves to Yankee Stadium, New York, for games tomorrow, Saturday and—if necessary—Sunday.

The Phils, who, including yesterday's 1-0 series loss to the Yanks, have dropped ten of their last 12 games, sought to recapture their pennant ways by sending their acknowledged ace, the right-handing Robin Roberts, to the pitching hill this coldish but sunny day.

Against him, the Yankees threw smoke-balling Allie Reynolds, creator of a 2-hit 1-to-0 shutout in the Series against the Dodgers last year.

The flags and banners decking the green roof tops of ancient old Shibe Park flapped whippingly in a brisk cold wind blowing towards the outfield from home plate—a harbinger, perhaps, of a violent hitting jag today to break the drab perfection established yesterday.

There were only seven hits, six of them singles and one of the six a scratch, throughout yesterday's opener.

• • •

THE YANKEES, 13-to-5 Series favorites and 8-to-5 opening game choices before the start of play yesterday, now are 6-to-1 to win the Series.

The 60-degree weather kept reserved seat ticketholders from showing early at the ball park

The Philly management, understandably new to the ways of handling Series tickets after going 35 years between pennants, actually held out 2,000 opening-game tickets that never were bought. These seats, however, were placed on sale directly after yesterday's game.

The zany madcap of jubilance that has captivated the City of Brotherly Love over the Phillies' first National League pennant in 35 years was transformed into a tight-lipped confidence today that the Whiz Kids can still win the World Series.

Outwardly undaunted because their darling peppermint-striped boys failed to whip the New York Yankees in yesterday's Series' inaugural, the loyal rooters maintained as today's encounter started:

"We're just one down, but not out."

The town's Phillie fans—some two million strong—lost some of their brash assuredness after the Yankee 1-0 win behind the splendid two-hit hurling of Vic Raschi, but retained a more reserved confidence in their diamond darlings.

One cab driver weaving through game traffic commented:

• • •

IN STORES AND restaurants festooned with decorative bunting and bedecked with pinup pictures of the Whiz Kids, it was the same story.

A waitress thought the young Phils may have had a little stage fright yesterday.

"But today it will be different when my Robbie goes in there," said she proudly.

Her "Robbie," is the Phillie 20-game winner, Robin Roberts, who beat Brooklyn Sunday in the Brooklyn thriller to clinch the pennant. He started today against the Yankees' Allie Reynolds.

The general cry this morning was for "just a few more hits."

Another sellout was in prospect at old Shibe Park where topcoats were the fad and necessity on this crisp, cloudy day.

But that didn't necessarily mean a packed house of 34,000. Yesterday's scene at the ballgrounds showed blocks of seats—which had been paid for—remain empty throughout the game, indicative of the wallets of some ticket scalpers who had it as rough as the Phils.

The scalpers also learned to their amazement that fabulous Texans know that there are bills of small denominations.

One was told by Herman Glenn Wiggins, well-to-do Dallas businessman of whom he had asked $150 for a pair of ducats:

• •

AND THAT'S what the smart money boy accepted, but to his dismay, because he was promptly nabbed by three vice squad members.

Most of the fans took the business about sellout crowds so seriously that they were astonished to find only small lines at the bleacher entrance where 3000 seats are sold at the park. Few were turned away.

The city's brotherly love seems confined only to the Phillies. Vic Raschi may have won yesterday's game, but he lost quite a few of his belongings when his hotel room was looted of two suitcases containing 140 Series tickets, clothing, and jewelry.

Senators Open Probe Of Chicago Crime Syndicate

CHICAGO, Oct. 5—The Senate Crime Committee today begins the Chicago appearance of its touring investigation and Chairman Kefauver, (D) Tenn., said Illinois Gov. Adlai Stevenson will be invited to appear before the group.

Kefauver said 50 subpenas have been served on prospective witnesses and 40 others, including Jake Guzik, Capone syndicate general manager, are being sought.

High on the committee's agenda during its Chicago visit, the senator said, will be an inquiry into the Sept. 25 gangland-style killings of Ex-Police Lt. William Drury and Attorney Marvin Bas, a Republican politician. But Kefauver added:

"We are not trying to solve murders. We want to know whether those two men were killed because of our investigation. If so, there will be prosecution."

Kefauver disclosed that Boris Kostelanetz, former assistant U. S. attorney, has been appointed a special committee counsel to coordinate the New York-New Jersey phase of the committee's inquiry.

Kostelanetz, successful prosecutor in the million dollar movie extortion plot several years ago, will seek to determine whether gambling interests centered at New York's Saratoga race track are linked with a singl gambling syndicate operating in Chicago, Miami and Kansas City.

PARLEY WITH JOE SOUGHT

Red Reaction Is Awaited On Stassen's Peace Plea

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—Official Washington watched today for the Kremlin's reaction to Harold E. Stassen's proposal that he confer personally again with Soviet Premier Stalin.

While congressional response to Stassen's message to Stalin was cool, the State Department's first concern was to make it emphatically clear the former Minnesota governor was not speaking for the United States government.

There was some fear that Stalin might mistakenly believe that Stassen's appeal was officially inspired, despite the Republican's statements to the contrary.

Stassen made these twin announcements in Washington:

1. He has written Stalin, through the Soviet embassy in Washington, urging that Russia "stop the drift toward war" and proposing further discussions either through correspondence or conferences. The Russian embassy said it had forwarded the letter to Stalin.

2. He is taking a leave of absence from his post as president of the University of Pennsylvania to survey conditions in Asia in November and December. The trip will be financed by a "major foundation" which he would not identify.

Stassen said he based his action on his fear that Russia might "miscalculate and misunderstand" America's strength and intentions.

He said the time was ripe for a statement from an active member of the minority party to convince the Soviets of America's position on world peace.

Stassen announced that if there is no official conference with Stalin, as he has previously urged upon President Truman, he would hope that he and four or five "top citizen leaders" could sit down with the Soviet leader. Stassen emphasized that their discussions would be made public, as was his 1947 talk with Stalin in Moscow.

• • •

Sen. Bricker, (R) Ohio, said that "if there is a conference, I hope it would be productive of something that's good."

Sen. Thomas, (D) Okla., said it would be pointless because only the President can fix foreign policy and "Stalin knows that." Thomas said such a meeting would only produce "publicity for Mr. Stassen."

Rep. Durham, (D) N. C., said he didn't think "any man as thoroughly devoted to Communism as Stalin is can be talked out of it."

23 Are Hurt In Train Wreck

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 5 — Twenty-three persons were injured here today when a crack New York Central flyer crashed into a tank car that had cracked a wheel and jumped onto the main tracks.

Seven of the injured were detained in Erie hospitals, although authorities said none of the injured was seriously hurt.

Veteran railroad men said it was a "miracle" there was no loss of life or more serious injuries. The wreck scene was described as a "mess."

$1005 Ordered Paid Back To State

Chiseling on state unemployment compensation boomeranged Thursday to bring four Circleville men into the hands of the law.

The four were finned a total of $1,200 and sentenced to an aggregate of 360 days in Pickaway County jail. Mayor Thurman I. Miller, however, suspended the jail terms and part of the fines.

A total of $1,005 in rebates was ordered paid back to the state.

Haled before Mayor Miller were Clifford Coates, 40, of 478 Half avenue; Donald Miller, 21, of 712 South Washington street; Lindsey Hill, 54, of Hayward avenue and William B. Teets, 38, of Circleville Route 3.

Schindler accused the men of drawing checks for unemployment compensation at a time when each was self-employed.

• • •

HE DECLARED that each of the defendants had drawn more BUC money than was stated in the affidavits, explaining that each affidavit was only for the first week of each man's offense. According to state law each week could be counted a separate offense.

"Actually," he said, "each of these men drew compensation for several weeks. And during this time they were self-employed."

The employment consisted of hauling baled straw for Container Corporation of America, he said.

The affidavit against Coates accused him of drawing $30 compensation during the week ending Nov. 19, 1949. Schindler said his actual debt to BUC is $600.

Coates was fined $300 and costs and sentenced to 90 days days in jail. Mayor Miller suspended the jail sentence.

"You understand," said the mayor to Coates, "that you've got to pay this $600 back to the state. However, that's a matter between you and the bureau. But since you've got to work in order to get the cash, and you can't work while you're in jail, I am suspending the sentence."

The mayor said essentially the same thing to Hill when he suspended a 90-day jail sentence and $200 of a $300 fine. The affidavit against Hill was virtually the same as the one against Coates.

• • •

SCHINDLER explained to the court that Hill's total debt to the state amounted to $90.

Donald Miller also was fined $300 and sentenced to 90 days in jail, with the jail term and $200 of the fine suspended. Schindler said his total debt to the bureau

Brutal Murder Comes In Midst Of Series Game

ZANESVILLE, Oct. 5 — The radio blared and the ticker chattered with an account of the first game of the World Series, but it was over at the end of the third inning for a 63-year-old Zanesville poolroom operator who had been murdered.

James Omen, sitting alone in the poolroom yesterday was beaten to death with a pool cue and a bed slat and his throat was ripped open with a dull knife.

Police are to question more suspects today. Omen, apparently struck from behind, was sitting in a chair with his shoes off. His white socks were unsoiled, indicating he was killed without a struggle.

Police theorized that he died in the Yankee half of the fourth inning. Omen was posting the score on a blackboard and the scoring ended with the third. The fourth inning began shortly before 1:45 p. m.

The body, sprawled out on the floor in a pool of blood, was found an hour later by Elmer Buckley, a soft drink truck driver. Near the battered body the pool cue and bed slat were found. The No. 6 pool ball was missing from a table beside Omen, but was found in a stove, partially burned.

Dewey Expert On One Subject

OLEAN, N. Y., Oct. 5—There's no grass growing under New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's feet these days as he stumps the state for a third term—and for good reason.

"Anybody who thinks the election is in the bag is making a great mistake. I am a leading authority on the subject of overconfidence. I am the best witness in the United States of the danger of thinking anything is settled before the votes are counted."

is $67.50. The affidavit against him accused him of drawing $22.50 in unemployment compensation.

The same fine and sentence was given Teets. The mayor suspended the jail term and $100 of the fine. Schindler said his total debt was $247.50.

The special investigator said that no rigid deadline will be set for the men to pay back the money.

"It all depends on individual circumstances," he said.

Schindler explained that persons registered for unemployment compensation are required by law to report all earnings, regardless of the source.

If the earnings come from self-employment, no compensation can be drawn.

But if a person is employed by another person or company and his weekly wage is less than the amount of his compensation, then the BUC will make an adjustment.

* * *

C. C. THOMAS, local BUC manager, explained it this way:

"If the person is drawing $25 a week unemployment compensation and he gets a job paying him $10 a week, then an adjustment will be made to pay him $15 a week compensation.

"If his wage is only $2 a week, he gets his full compensation check. But over that there must be an adjustment."

Protective Group Membership Up

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said 20 more men joined the organization during the session, while badges were issued to the other 135 members.

"Fairfield, Fayette and Union Counties are interested in forming the same kind of organization," Radcliff said. "I have given them information as to how the local group was formed."

The sheriff added that uniform caps have arrived for the members and will be distributed soon.

any materials which are short, you would not need to put on price controls.

The Ohio senator said he thought prices have risen because the other programs he mentioned have not been put into operation. He continued:

"But if prices continue to go up, we will have to have a further tax increase. It is not fair to the boys to say they have to fight the war and pay for it too when they come home."

Bricker declared that an excess profits tax will have to be approved but, he said, this is a ticklish measure which needs careful study to prevent it from backfiring.

He argued that in peacetime, an excess profits tax could well kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

Woman Driver Said Reckless, Is Fined $25

A Chillicothe woman was fined for reckless operation early Thursday following a traffic accident on Route 23 north of South Bloomfield.

Officer Mack Wise said Mrs. Mary A. Bunstine, 24, of Chillicothe, had attempted to pass a truck and another auto at about 8:30 a. m. Thursday after the other car had signalled for a left turn.

Wise said the Bunstine car crashed into the rear left side of the turning auto, operated by Benjamin Cheney, 55, of Columbus. Cheney suffered a minor back injury, Wise said.

Mrs. Bunstine was fined $25 and costs later in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root for reckless operation.

Mrs. Maude B. Hubbell, 75, died in her home in Adelphi at 11:15 p. m. Wednesday following a heart attack suffered earlier in the evening.

Born Jan. 5, 1875, she was the daughter of Henry and Carolyn Betz Strawser.

She was a member of Adelphi Methodist church.

Preceded in death by her husband, Shadrack Hubbell, and a daughter, Mrs. Myriam Strous, she is survived by three children, Mrs. R. B. DeLong of near Adelphi, Mrs. R. L. Skinner of Norwood and Horace R. Hubbell of near Adelphi; 13 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held in Adelphi Methodist church at 2:30 p. m. Saturday. The Rev. I. C. Wright and the Rev. Clyde Webster will officiate.

Burial will be in Green Summit cemetery, Adelphi, under the direction of Loring Hill Funeral Home, Kingston.

Drunken Driver Penalty Varies With The Judge

Two drunken drivers were arraigned before two different Circleville courts. One received only a simple fine while the other was assessed a fine—and a jail sentence.

Arthur Samuel Wright, 32, of Dover, received only a $100 and costs fine in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for his offense.

However, Paul Bocook, 20, of Jackson was given the $100 and costs fine and a 15-day sentence in Pickaway County jail as a little something extra to remember.

Magistrate Oscar Root administered the extra reminder when Bocook faced his court. The magistrate is following the plan that "days" will be remembered longer than just money fines.

Bocook was arrested on Route 23 north of Circleville by Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff. Wright was arrested on West Main street by Officer Harold Green.

Mills Brothers Circus To Winter In Columbus

Mills Brothers Circus, which in years past always wintered in Circleville, is switching cold weather stamping grounds to Columbus.

The three Mills Brothers, Jack, Jake and Harry, all of Cleveland, have leased space on the state fairgrounds for their show's Winter stay.

Fred Stafford, circus official, said the Mills had desired for some time to have their show hibernate in Columbus. The past three Winters were spent on Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

The circus was said to need more room. Headquarters will be set up in the Junior Fair Building where an arena will be available to practice animal acts.

The first circus units will pull into Columbus about Nov. 17 after a final show in Augusta, Ga. The show is to stay at the fairgrounds until mid-April.

5 Vocal Music Groups Booked

There will be no lack of vocal music in this year's Circleville Pumpkin Show starting Oct. 18.

The music will be supplied by five groups. They are Circleville high school choir, girls glee clubs of Scioto, Saltcreek and Washington Townships and Trinity Lutheran Junior Choir.

According to Program Director James P. Shea, baton twirling and amateur contests will be sponsored by Circleville Booster Club this year.

Other United Nations forces in South Korea eliminated an additional 5,698 trapped North Korean troops in a mopping up campaign which was declared officially to have rendered the Red invasion remnants "completely ineffective."

GEN. DOUGLAS MacArthur's briefing officer announced in Tokyo late Thursday that a force of B-29 Superforts smashed the marshalling yards at Nanam, 65 miles southwest of the narrow Siberian-North Korean frontier.

The spokesman said the devastating raid was carried out after Superfort reconnaissance flights had disclosed a marked increase of train movements in that northeast corner of North Korea.

Nanam is a major coastal junction on a railroad leading north via Southeast Manchuria to Russia's kingpin Siberian naval base of Vladivostok, some 150 miles away.

Nanam lies six miles below Chongjin, a big North Korean port of entry for ocean traffic from Siberia. It is 210 miles northeast of Wonsan, below which Communist troops were making their first organized stand on their home territory against the South Korean Third Division.

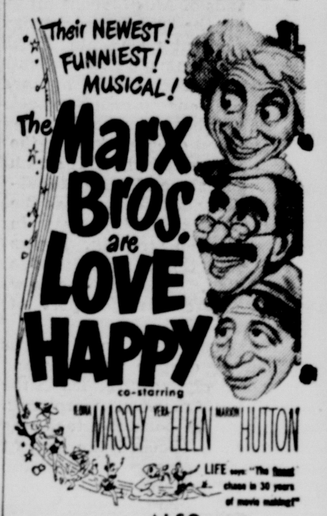

$10 Bond Lost By Driver Of Noisy Truck

William P. Hill, 28, of Jackson, forfeited $10 bond in city mayor's court Wednesday for failing to answer an accusation of operating an unmuffled truck.

Hill was arrested on North Court street by Officers Harold Green and Carl Thompson, who said the man's truck was equipped with a straight exhaust.

Arthur L. King of North East, Pa., was fined $15 and costs in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for passing in a non-passing zone on Route 23.

Experts Advise On Soft Corn

Recommendations Are Detailed

COLUMBUS, Sept. 29—Extension agronomists at Ohio State university today began bringing up-to-date their recommendations about what to do about soft corn in Ohio.

No figures are as yet available on the extent of frost damage to corn over the weekend, but spot checks by the agronomists indicate some Ohio corn, particularly that in the northern portion of the state, was hit by frost.

One of the agronomists, E. P. Reed, made available today the following information so individual farmers may estimate the extent of frost damage:

If frost does not strike until corn is mature—has 35 percent or less moisture with kernels fully dented and no milk at the kernel base—no reduction in yield results.

When ears are in the late milk stage, kernels are only 50 percent developed; in the soft dough stage, 70 to 75 percent developed, and in the hard dough stage, 90 percent developed.

* * *

REED EXPLAINED that this did not mean, however, that corn frosted at these stages will suffer corresponding losses in yield because there is considerable translocation of sugar from the stalk to the ear even after corn is badly frosted or cut and shocked.

This indicates that the biggest yields of corn from frosted fields will be realized if the corn is left standing in the field until it is more nearly ready to crib.

Reed said cutting and shocking will not prove to be the most profitable way to handle the soft corn crop unless the field must be immediately cleared for what seeding or serious stalk breakage is occurring.

Frosted corn may be put into the silage, the agronomist added, and this often is one of the best methods of salvaging the crop. On a dry matter basis, the silage is just as good, pound for pound, as that from mature corn. Silage from immature corn may contain, however, 15 to 20 percent less dry matter.

UNIVERSITY TESTS CITED

Ammoniated Toothpowder Found To Slash Decay

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 — Preliminary results of a two-year long dentifrice study among more than 700 Peoria, Ill., school children have been released and indicated that ammoniated toothpowder, properly used, reduced dental decay by 20.5 percent.

The study was made under the auspicies of the University of Illinois college of dentistry and the Illinois state health department in an effort to get a reliable indication of just what an ammoniated dentifrice can accomplish.

Dr. Robert G. Kesel of the university, who developed the first ammoniated toothpowder, said the results of the Peoria test fully confirm limited tests made several years ago with medical and dental students.

"Guinea pigs" in the test were 716 children in the fifth, sixth and seventh grades in the Peoria public schools.

They brushed their teeth under the direction of their teachers every school day at 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. and were put on the honor to brush their teeth at home after the evening meal on school days and during vacations and weekends.

BEFORE THE tests began, each child had his teeth carefully cleaned and then checked for cavities by examiners from the state health department.

Dr. Kesel said three types of dentifrices were used. One was an ordinary non-ammoniated tooth powder; the second was the University of Illinois foundation powder containing five percent ammonium phosphate and three percent carbamide. A third contained ammonium and a special clay.

Best results were given by the plain ammoniated toothpowder, which slashed decay by 20.5 percent over a control group which brushed their teeth according to their usual habits.

Children who used just the non-ammoniated tooth powder had 9.3 percent lower decay rate than did the controlees.

Columbus Sets Up Civilian Defense Department

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5 — Columbus today has a department of civil defense.

The department was created officially last night by action of the city council.

The department is to be headed by a dollar-a-year director. With a staff of five, the director will be a parttime leader but with authority similar to other city department heads.

The staff will include a $5,088-a-year executive administrator; two administrative assistants at $3,900 a year and a clerk and a stenographer.

The council appropriated $5,000 for the department for the rest of the year.

The nine-member executive committee will meet Friday to consider some 30 persons recommended for the top post of director. The mayor, with council's consent, will make the appointment. The staff will be selected in the same manner.

Oil Blaze Dope Ordered Bought For Firemen

Circleville's fire department soon is to be equipped with a unit with which to combat gasoline, oil and tar fires.

"Of course, it won't be big enough to handle a fire like we had several years ago," said the chief, referring to a huge blaze at the Circleville Oil Co. bulk plant, "but it will be sufficient for our needs."

The chief said the apparatus sprays out a soapy substance over a gasoline or oil blaze which smothers the flames.

He said the money appropriated by council will buy the equipment and 35 gallons of fluid.

Lasso Used To Save Boy

BATAVIA, Oct. 5—James Walden of Covington, Ky., was credited today with saving the life of a fellow-worker with a lasso.

Walden threw the rope down into a 20-foot well and dropped it over Ralph Rice, 18, also of Covington, who had been overcome by lack of oxygen. He pulled the boy to the surface and revived him.

Ballot Ruling To Be Tested

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5—A Lakewood woman will test the ruling of Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy that illiterates may receive help in marking their ballots.

Mrs. Veva G. Sumergrade late yesterday filed a suit in the state supreme court asking a writ of prohibition to invalidate the ruling. The case was set for hearing Saturday.

Duffy's ruling to Secretary of State Charles F. Sweeney held that election officials may assist illiterate persons in marking their ballots.

Women Oppose Liquor Clinics

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5 — A delegate to the Columbus conference of Ohio church women has called for defeat of a proposed bill in the Ohio General Assembly to establish clinics for alcoholics.

Mrs. Harld Brown of Chillicothe urged the group to adopt a resolution against the proposal to spend $30,000 on each of 70 clinics for alcoholics. She declared:

"Why should you and I be taxed to pay this initial cost of $2.5 million in taxes to take care of the victims of liquor traffic? Why shouldn't the traffic pay for them?"

CANCEROUS SORE

WARNING the American people that inflation is not around the corner but is here, right now, Thomas B. McCabe, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, believes it will require all the resources of the nation to eradicate this "cancerous sore."

Commercial bank loans have increased $2,500,000,000 since the war in Korea started. Consumer credits have increased $10,000,000,000 in the last year. Why shouldn't people borrow? So long as inflation continues, they will pay the loan in money that is cheaper than that they borrowed.

Wild spending is the custom of the hour. In this the people are merely following the example of their government. The government continues to borrow from the banks and the banks convert the government's paper into new credit. That is particularly vicious at a time when the government is about to step in and requisition for military purposes production that otherwise would be devoted to the output of civilian goods.

People with pockets crammed full of cheap money will bid up the price of scarce goods. Experience in the last war proved that any controls the government can devise will be ineffective.

McCabe says the government ought to levy taxes high enough to pay current government costs. This step would reduce the present over-supply of money that can be spent for consumer goods. This theory, expounded frequently of late, is based on the rankest fallacy. When taxes go up, prices and wages go up to pay the increased taxes, and inflation is given a new boost.

But the "cancerous sore" is here. Unless it is removed, the country will suffer more intense agonies.

NO GASOLINE RATIONING

THERE will be no need for gasoline rationing in the foreseeable future, according to W. S. Zehrung, president of the National Petroleum Association. Mr. Zehrung declares the oil industry is producing sufficient petroleum to meet all needs, including military, and still maintain the highest oil reserves in history.

During the last war the oil industry increased its production to 5,000,000 barrels of crude oil a day. Production now ranges between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 barrels daily, according to seasonal demands.

With the nation geared to motor car travel, rationing of the necessary fuel would impose a real hardship upon the country's economy and the American way of life. It is unlikely there would be a shortage of food regardless of the length of another war. With plenty of fuel, civilian life would go on much the same as usual.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

To repeat: It is impossible to correct an historic mistake except by war. The Ford Foundation apparently intends to use its money in the ages-old search for a substitute for war, but it is likely to produce nothing more serious, in these times, than learned monographs by erudite and imaginative professors. And the reason is not that war is a satisfactory instrument but rather that too many mistakes have been made which cannot otherwise be corrected, except in a static world.

No one would have imagined at any time, until it actually happened, that Korea, of all countries, would build an army and risk a war with the United States. And of course, the unimaginable did not happen: Korea never went to war by an act of the Korean people. Soviet Russia, utilizing a native force of her own creation in Korea, crossed the 38th Parallel and risked battle.

Realistically, Russia should have been held accountable for a breach of treaty when it rejected the concept of a united Korea, but this was not done. Instead, a line drawn only for the purpose of handling Japanese prisoners of war in that country was perpetuated into two political spheres of influence.

This was an historical error that had to be corrected, as it could not be continued indefinitely. Therefore, one side or the other would sooner or later cross the line. When both the United States and the United Nations showed a disinclination to unify Korea, Soviet Russia, pursuing an imperialistic program on a 7,000-mile front, moved with a force that had been 30 years in the making, its organization having been planned at the Baku conference in 1920.

Now the tables having been turned by the military victory of General Douglas MacArthur, the line has been crossed again, this time by the South Koreans.

And that may lead to war with either Soviet China or Soviet Russia, which is the same thing. At stake is not Korea or the 38th Parallel. At stake is the authority of the United Nations, the United States and Soviet Russia. The conflict is over the issue of empire. Shall the conquest of Asia by Soviet Russia be arrested, under the authority of the United Nations, but by the armed forces of the United States, or, shall Soviet Russia establish the principles that any country conquered or absorbed or enslaved to the empire shall never be influenced, affected or molested by any power on earth?

The very continuance of the Soviet empire depends upon the ability of Soviet Russia to prevent the unification of Korea by the United Nations. From the Russian standpoint, such unification should be achieved by Soviet Russia in her own way, in accordance with the Soviet pattern. The crossing of the line by the South Koreans is a challenge to the Soviet theory of empire.

The attitude of Soviet China does not seem in doubt. It is a member of the Federation of Soviet Republics. True, Chou En-lai, its foreign minister, has been flirting with Great Britain and the American State Department, but this is a meaningless play for time and advantage. In fact, the United Nations invited Soviet China to appear before it on Nov. 15, but time is running out, and Soviet China cannot afford that Mac-

DIET AND HEALTH

A Serious Lung Disorder

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MODERN advances in surgery now make possible the surgical treatment of a very distressing disorder which has previously resulted in much chronic invalidism.

Known as bronchiectasis this disease gradually destroys large areas of lung tissue. The tubes of the lungs become dilated and filled with a foul-smelling discharge. There is much coughing, occasional attacks of fever, and generalized weakness.

Correct Deformity

No medical treatment will correct the deformities of the bronchial tube though antibiotics, such as penicillin, may be used to control the infection which so often complicates this disease. Since these patients lead such a miserable life and are so likely to end up as invalids, early surgical treatment to remove the affected lung tissue is suggested.

Most of these patients are in poor general health, so that proper care before operation is needed. Their nutrition must be improved and injections of whole blood into a vein are often necessary to overcome anemia or lessening of the coloring of the blood. Any vitamin deficiencies must be corrected, particularly vitamin C.

Seven Days

For from four to seven days before operation, the patient is given penicillin both by injection into a muscle and by breathing it into the lungs. The patient is also taught how to carry out postural drainage. He lies over the bed with his head lower than the feet so that the secretions in the lungs may drain out.

X-ray examination, as well as examination of the lungs through a bronchoscope is necessary to determine the exact location and extent of the bronchiectasis. A bronchoscope is a tube and a light which can be passed into the lung so that the physician can look directly at the tissue.

Rid of Injection

Before surgery, it is also important to get rid of any infections in the nose, mouth, and sinuses. After operation, the pleural or chest cavity is flooded with a solution of penicillin and streptomycin. The patient is again examined with a bronchoscope and X-rays are taken to be sure that the lung left in place has re-expanded. At regular intervals, the secretions are sucked out of the windpipe and bronchial tubes. Every three hours, for from five to seven days, injections of penicillin and streptomycin into a muscle are employed.

Patients who are developing bronchiectasis should, of course, be under the care of a physician who will decide when surgical measures are required.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. S.: Is inhaling beechwood creosote healing to the lungs?

Answer: I know of no evidence that this substance has any value in lung disorders.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

PERRY sat so still after Dr. Grinstead warned her to protect Philip from poisoning that for a moment he looked uneasy, afraid that she was going to faint. Then before she could pull herself together to thank him and get away, there was a knock at the door and Dr. McKenzie thrust his head in.

"Hi, Grinny. They told me in the clinic you wanted me to drop in when I'd finished." Then he saw Perry and stopped, came in and closed the door. His first flash of—could it possibly have been pleasure?—vanished as he greeted her and turned back questioningly to Dr. Grinstead.

"Sit down, Jay," said Dr. Grinstead hospitably. "I knew you would be interested in the analysis, and I thought perhaps you'd be here about the same time as Miss Kimbro."

"Analysis?" Dr. McKenzie looked sharply at Perry and then at Dr. Grinstead as he dropped into a chair and drew out his pipe.

"Afraid we're afoul of Miss Mehitty again, Jay," said Dr. Grinstead dryly.

"Good. If we've got something we can hang on the old witch, so we can trim her claws—" began Dr. McKenzie.

Dr. Grinstead shook his head.

"Just another dose of that 'Magic Elixir' stuff she peddles around," he answered. "That's all we found in the pudding that had no right to be there."

Puzzled, Dr. McKenzie frowned as he studied Dr. Grinstead.

"I hate to seem unreasonably stupid, fella, but what the heck are you yammering about? Analysis of what pudding?" he demanded.

Dr. Grinstead shot a startled glance at Perry's white face and then back at Dr. McKenzie.

"Sorry, Jay. I thought, of course, that Miss Kimbro came here at your suggestion," he explained awkwardly. "Suppose you tell him, Miss Kimbro."

Dr. McKenzie looked at Perry hard. There was cold anger in his eyes, and his jaw was set and hard.

"Yes, Miss Kimbro, by all means, suppose you do." His voice stung and her face reddened as though the sting had been physical.

She explained about the pudding which Sanna had made with her own hands and brought to Philip, and which she had wanted to feed him with her own hands; and about Philip's insistence that the pudding be analyzed for any dangerous element.

Dr. McKenzie listened without a word, his jaw setting harder, his eyes more and more hostile, and when she had finished, he said bitingly, "I see. And apparently it did not occur to you, Miss Kimbro, that as Philip's physician, in charge of the case, I should have been informed—if it was too much to expect that you would consult with me—before taking such action?"

Perry's head went up. But of course he was right. She had had no right whatever to come here to the lab without first consulting Dr. McKenzie. And it should have been Dr. McKenzie, not the nurse, who asked for the analysis.

"I meant to tell you," she told him unsteadily. "But I didn't know how to get in touch with you. And Mr. Ellender was upset and insistent that I lose no time. And then when I was returning to Pinelands—perhaps you remember what happened then?"

Some of the hostility melted from his eyes and she saw that he was remembering. For a dazzling, breathless moment she felt once more the pressure of his arms about her, his anxious voice in her ears calling her "darling;" all the exciting, exquisite wonder of that enchanted interval when old Miss Mehitty had chased her straight into the paradise of Jay McKenzie's arms.

"Yes," said Dr. McKenzie softly. "I remember very well."

Perry drew a hard breath. "Well, things happened so fast there wasn't a chance to tell you anything, for Sanna came along then, and she was in a hurry."

Dr. McKenzie nodded slowly beneath the impact of that.

"Of course. She was hurrying to catch up with Miss Mehitty. That's why Miss Mehitty was in the woods. There are not enough of her herbs growing there to justify her gathering them. I sensed there was something odd about her being there, but I couldn't quite fit it in." His words came slowly, for he was obviously fitting the patches together in his mind as he spoke, and the picture was coming clear. "So Sanna had a date with Miss Mehitty—maybe for more of the 'Magic Elixir,' poor little devil!"

The last words came so softly that for a moment Perry could not be quite sure that she heard them. And when she was sure, she blinked a little and felt as though a tiny ray of light had penetrated a dark room. For does a man wildly in love with a woman speak of her in a tone of pity as "poor little devil"? But before her silly heart could grasp a faint shred of hope from the thought, she thrust it away from her. She had seen Sanna held close in Jay's arms, weeping her heart out. Jay had fought her battles so furiously that there was a great deal of gossip around the mountain about it. He was in love with Sanna; he had to be. It was the only possible explanation. Relentlessly she pushed shut the door in her heart that had permitted, for just an instant, one tiny thread of hope.

Dr. McKenzie drew a deep breath at last and sat erect.

"Definitely, something is going to have to be done about Miss Mehitty," he said firmly.

Dr. Grinstead smiled at him in open derision.

"Such as what, for instance? You know darned well, Jay, that if the law laid so much as a finger on her, the mountains would rise up to a man, and there'd be such a to-do as never was! They worship her," he protested.

"They are scared to death of her!"

"Maybe. But just the same, who is it they send for when there's sickness in the family? When Bud Pickens was gored by his prize Jersey bull, who was there giving him treatment when the ambulance arrived? And who got the credit for saving his life? Believe me, it wasn't anybody connected with Ellender Memorial!" Dr. Grinstead reminded him. "And you know as well as I do how many others can tell similar stories."

"Soot, cobwebs and a weird yellow powder applied by Miss Mehitty are supposed to have saved Bud. But you and I know darned well, Grinny, what really pulled him through, and it happened right here with practically the whole darned staff on 24-hour duty for four solid days."

Dr. Grinstead nodded, grinning.

"Sure, you and I know that. But will anybody outside the hospital admit it? Nope, it's Miss Mehitty that did it, and until you catch her really administering some fatal dose to somebody, you're sunk! So leave us face it, pal."

Dr. McKenzie was silent for a moment, and then he said grimly, almost savagely, "Well, when that day dawns, it won't be Sanna Ellender who administers the fatal dose to her husband, I'll stake my life on that."

Dr. Grinstead said quietly, "I want to believe that, Jay."

"You may," snapped Dr. McKenzie, and rose. "Well, I've got to get old Danny Parker's daily dose of insulin into him, and I've got to step on it."

He nodded to Dr. Grinstead, to Perry, and walked out. And for a moment after he had gone it seemed to Perry that the room was unbearably cold and bleak and empty.

Dr. Grinstead watched her, and after a moment he said levelly: "Don't you think, Miss Kimbro, that it would be wiser of you to work in closer cooperation with the physician in charge of your case? Aren't you overstepping your authority a bit? You could easily get both of us into a bit of a jam, going over Jay's head as you have in this matter."

Perry accepted the rebuke humbly, thanked him for his service, and escaped.

FOLKS OF FAME—GUESS THE NAME

1—This motion picture director and producer was born in Paris, France, Feb. 2, 1873. He was a painter and stage director there, and later produced films. He came to the United States in 1912, and produced and directed for all the major studios. Some of those pictures were Eclair World, Aircraft, Trilby, The Whip, The Poor Little Rich Girl, Blue Bird, Sporting Life, Treasure Island, The Wishing Ring, The Pit, The County Fair, Last of the Mohicans, The Silver Horde, The Silent Call and Brawn of the North. Later he returned to Europe to produce pictures and retired. Can you tell his name?

2—He was an American preacher and social reformer. He was born in Lexington, Mass., Aug. 24, 1810. His grandfather was a leader of the Minutemen in the skirmish at Lexington, during the Revolution. He became a schoolmaster at 17. He was extremely antagonistic to popular theology of the period, but was ordained in West Roxbury, Mass., in 1837. In Boston, in the years 1841-42 he delivered lectures published as the Discourse of Matters Pertaining to Religion. He fearlessly advocated emancipation of the slaves, assisted the escape of fugitive slaves and aided John Brown. His health failed, and he died in Florence, Italy, on May 10, 1860. It is said of him that he "spoke straight to men's intelligence and conscience and the goodness of their hearts." Who was he?

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

YOUR FUTURE

Control your emotions at this time and you will win out in any circumstances. A measure of success is predicted for you during the coming months. Enjoy it. Your own actions and enterprise should determine the extent of your success. Look for ambition in the child born today. Check too critical, exacting, and self-willed tendencies if there are any, and popularity is likely to result.

HOW'D YOU MAKE OUT?

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—When Lois Schenck came to New York four years ago from Narberth, Pa., her credentials were exactly the same as those of five hundred other girls. She was young and pretty and blond. She had $40 in her pocket, she had amateur and semi-pro theatrical experience and with her parents' approval and help, she was, in her words, going to take the city by storm. The situation is old and familiar.

Where the other five hundred might have lasted a couple of years at most and then gone back to the home town to marry the butcher's son, Lois today is a success. She is not yet a success as an actress, it is true, although she is climbing closer and closer by slow degrees—but she is successful as president of Shoeshine Girls, Inc.

There are 25 Shoeshine Girls in New York right now. They are just what the name sounds like—shoeshine girls. But theirs is an esoteric working world. They turn up at conventions, service-club luncheons, restaurants and hotels, each carrying her shine kit and wearing her special costume of black and red checked shorts and sleeveless white Peter Pan blouse trimmed with the black and red check.

They work under different salary arrangements wherever they go, but when they handle big luncheon clubs like the Circus Saints and Sinners, their tips run from $1 to $10 a man. In the words of Lois Schenck: it's wonderful.

"When I came to New York, it was five months before I got my first job, a bit in Bert Lahr's Burlesque," Lois told me today. "I worked as an usher at the Art theater down in the Village, and then I used to fill in as cashier, secretary and clean-up woman.

"I remember that several times I was down on my knees, scrubbing, when people like Ingrid Bergman and Dana Andrews came by. And me a potential actress! I almost died."

APPARENTLY LOIS ALWAYS THOUGHT that pretty girls could make something out of the shoeshine business. After months of receiving "that little thing in the mail"—that would be unemployment insurance—she turned up one day in Times Square with a shoeshine kit.

"It was 12 noon," she said. "I was shaking like a leaf. At first nobody took me seriously. They thought it was an election bet or a sorority initiation.

"Then my dentist, Dr. Irwin Abel, happened along, and asked me what I was doing. I told him and he just patted me on the head and said 'Good luck.' After that, passersby knew I was authentic—and business began."

She made $11 that first day. Then she went at it every day for three months, except Sundays. She was living with a couple of other young business girls and they used to tuck her into bed at night, she was so tired.

"But I loved it," she said, "and I still do. You get to meet so many people and talk about so many things. I don't shine shoes in the street any more, but I still go out with the girls and I shine pretty nearly everywhere else. And I'm a good shoeshiner."

Finally she got six other girls together and formed what she called the Gingham Girls' Shoeshine Group, and then the rise went on rapidly. At present they have an office and Miss Schenck is eating so high on the hog these evenings that last month alone she gained eight pounds. It is carefully and evenly distributed.

THE TWO DOZEN GIRLS WHO WORK FOR LOIS all are in show business or the modeling racket, and they do their shoeshining between jobs. They can clear $30 or $40 a week, and they like it much better than clerking in stores or waiting on tables, because (1) it's different, and (2) they get a lot of publicity.

Just last month Lois was appearing in a bit part in The Madwoman of Chaillot touring company, playing what they call the subway circuit in Brooklyn, and shining shoes by day.

Her girls have included Peggy Nelson, who took over Joan Lorring's role in Come Back, Little Sheba just before it closed, and Serena Sande, who starred in a Florida-made movie that has yet to be released.

Lois now lives alone near the American Museum of Art and she observes all the rules that her girls do on the job. They sign contracts not to smoke, drink or date while working.

The big money, Lois feels, may lie in getting hooked up with a shoe company or a polish-manufacturing firm. Meanwhile, she grins as she remembers what Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman once told her when she was shining Kaufman's shoes on Broadway, a couple of years ago. "You should make something out of this," they said to her, enthusiastically.

"I was 'way ahead of them," she says.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Sawyer waited so long to name his first-game starting pitcher, Moscow cabled the Voice Of America: "How about your Iron Curtain in Philadelphia?"

But we have named Eddie Sawyer "the man most likely" and will complete the sentence before midnight, Oct. 7.

The only seat we could get today was so far from home plate you could feel the ocean spray on the salt water taffy. That brought us back to New York quicker than a vanished policeman.

When we pay $40 for a seat on the boardwalk we expect Miss America to pitch. . .a full nine innings and overtime.

For the remainder of the Series, we are sharing a 10-inch television set with nine other men. Our inch is in leftfield and cloudy. We miss some of the thrills of personal attendance but our set has double images and who else can see two complete games at one time?

Bye now. . .Faye Emerson is coming in to pitch, or have we got the wrong channel?

Try, Stop Me

That brought up the Yankee third baseman, Jumping Joe Dugan. On the first pitch, he shortened his bat, laid down a perfect bunt, and beat the throw to first with plenty to spare. Manager Miller Huggins came steaming out of the dugout and bellowed, "I ought to fine you a hundred bucks for breaking up a rally."

Brian Donlevy still gets laughs with his story of the Aberdeen brothers who learned their old father was seriously ill in London, and dispatched the eldest son to look after him. "Wire us when you've seen him," said the other two, "and remember you can send ten words for a shilling." That night they received the following wire: "Arrived safely. Father dead. Funeral Tuesday. Rangers two, Celtics one."

The word pretzel is said to mean "little arms." Pretzels, according to the story, were originally given to children by their religious instructors as a reward for learning their prayers; the pretzel design represents folded arms.

400 Entries Are Expected

Pumpkin Show Baked Goods Department will be well housed this year—in the armory on East Franklin street.

According to Mrs. Willison Leist, director, every precaution will be taken to safeguard exhibits.

There will be the prizes awarded for the largest pumpkin pie and for the best decorated pumpkin pie. Winners will receive a $5 cash award in each class.

There will be prizes for the best plate of pumpkin cookies and the best pumpkin cake. Pumpkin cookie winners will receive awards of $1 for first place; 75 cents for second place. Winners in the pumpkin cake class will receive a first prize of $2 and a second prize $1.50.

Most coveted prize perhaps in the whole show is the prize going to the exhibitor having the most entries in the Baked Goods Department.

Mrs. Leist has announced that this prize goes to the winner who brings the most baked goods entries.

Canned goods and candies, eggs and butter entries, which are also a part of this display, are not included in this class.

The 1949 Pumpkin Show Baked Goods Department had a total of 390 entries. Mrs. Leist and her committee are expecting more entries this year and are preparing space for them. More than 400 entries are probable.

Assisting the director will be Mrs. Glen Hines, Mrs. Rolla Murlette, Mrs. Paul Campbell and Mrs. Edward Blum.

The three judges already procured will be out-of-county personnel provided by Ohio Fuel Gas. Co. and the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

In the cake exhibit will be 16 classes ranging from the pumpkin cake through chocolate layer cakes, nut cakes, spice cakes, sponge cakes, white and yellow layer cakes, angel food caes, devil cakes, best decorated cake and best novelty cake to best fruit cake.

The cookie division, which include cup cakes, will have 11 classifications.

This department will also have two classes for butter; two classes for eggs; a bread and roll section, candy with ten divisions and a canned goods section.

Canned goods will have classes for fruit, vegetables, jellies, pickles, relishes, jams and preserves.

Dawson-Nolty Marriage Set

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dawson of 506 East Mound street have announced the approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Ruth, to Charles A. Nolty, son of Ben L. Nolty of 1936 Sale Road of Columbus.

The wedding will take place Oct. 29.

Child Culture League Plans Entry In Show

At a meeting held in the home of Mrs. Lloyd Minor, two committees were named—one to select the child, the other to choose her clothing. On the first Mrs. James Morrison and Mrs. Charles Hart will serve. Making up the second committee will be Mrs. Mary Ellen Sarringhaus, Mrs. Emmett Evans and Mrs. George Neff.

As principal speaker of the evening, Mrs. George Neff outlined the symptoms, treatment and complication of five common childhood diseases.

Mrs. Bernard Smith was assisting hostess.

Berger Guild 6 Reviews Work Done By Group

A review of achievements highlighted the informal discussion when Berger Hospital Guild 6 was entertained in the home of Mrs. Ray Pierce with Mrs. Louis Mebs, vice-president conducting the session.

One of the facts brought out in the discussion was that Guild 6 had held a meeting each month, Summer months included, since its organization early in the year. It's project was the adoption of a room.

Money-making projects included regular dues, sale of a gift donated each meeting by a member and a rummage sale.

Guild 6 has provided its adopted room with new drapes and a new bed spread. A linen-purchasing-committee had on display new linens recently bought for the room. Mrs. Pierce was assisted by Mrs. Frank Hinkle and Miss Elizabeth Hilyard when she purchased the linens.

Mrs. Gibb Starkey has donated laundry service for any of the gifts purchased by Guild 6 for the room.

As a new project, the guild will provide a plastic covered chair. Guild President Mrs. Guy Campbell will donate table service which will be presented in the name of the guild.

Members voted to bring a toy for the hospital to the next meeting which will be held in Mrs. Starkey's home.

Idle Claim List Here On Increase

Local BUC Office Makes Report

According to a report from the state Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, both new and continued claims showed an increase.

New claims jumped from nine for the week before last to 14 last week, while continued claims climbed from 41 to 53.

Throughout the state, however, the BUC report showed both new and continued claims dropping. New claims the week before last totaled 4,918, dropping last week to 4,656.

Continued claims declined from 33,993 the week before last to last week's 31,779.

Meanwhile—employers throughout the state are being urged to hire handicapped workers on the basis of their abilities in at least 53 Ohio cities where campaigns now are observing this week as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week.

* * *

THE NEPH WEEK campaign in Ohio brings to a climax the year around efforts of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation and state and federal rehabilitation agencies to place qualified handicapped workers in jobs in which they are able to use their skills to the best advantage.

The 7,479 handicapped workers currently seeking jobs, according to C. C. Thomas, Local BUC manager, includes applicants who are qualified by training or experience for almost all types of skilled and semi-skilled work.

Surveys have shown, Thomas said, that when properly placed, handicapped workers have as good or better records than the non-handicapped in production, labor turnover and low absenteeism rates.

Half Of Farmers Now Using Co-Op Memberships

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 — The Farm Credit Administration says that memberships in farmer cooperatives are continuing their skyward climb.

The FCA reports that during the 1948-49 marketing season memberships in cooperatives increased a half million above the year before. That increase is about the same registered in the previous three years.

Farmer cooperatives now have more than six million, 384,000 members.

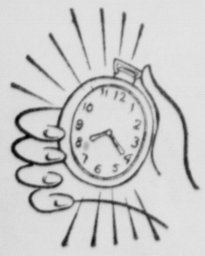

These preliminary estimates are expected to be cut down somewhat when the final surveys are in, the FCA says, because some farmers belong to more than one cooperative.

Still, the FCA points out, more than half of the nation's farmers now use the services of cooperatives to market their products or buy their supplies.

The 10 thousand farmer cooperatives in a government survey did business estimated at almost $7.5 billion by marketing what farmers produce and more than $2 billion by purchasing supplies.

Home-Ownership Ad Drive Set By Realtors

TOLEDO, Oct. 5—A national advertising campaign to sell to America the advantages of home ownership was described here yesterday before the 700 Ohio realtors in their third and final day of the 41st annual convention of the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards.

"A vigorous home-ownership campaign comprehends far more than an immediate effort to sell real estate," said Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice-president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. "It would be our affirmative action to top the choking control of housing in Washington.

"It makes citizens partners in America as nothing else does," he continued. "It is our best hope to check socialism and with it the hurrying encroachments that surely promise the extinction of private business, including our own real estate business."

Also recommended by Nelson was the formation of a home owners council to furnish information on home ownership as a cooperative service by realtors, home builders, materials manufacturers, lumber dealers, and mortgage loan banks and associations.

Nina Buskirk Gets Divorce; Settlement OKd

The couple was married March 26, 1919, in Circleville. They have one child, an adult. Judge William D. Radcliff found the husband guilty of gross neglect of duty.

A separation agreement gives the wife a residence on Elm avenue, household goods and furniture and one half of cash and bonds possessed by the couple.

Truman's Letter Brings $2,500

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 — President Truman's letter dubbing the Marine Corps as "the Navy's police force" with a "propaganda machine" comparable to Stalin's has been purchased by a Chicago insurance executive for $2,500.

Rep. Gordon McDonough, (R) Cal., recipient of the highly-controversial letter, announced last night that Harry Frasier, 52, bought the letter because he believes it to be an historic document. McDonough said the money has been donated to the Marine Corps League for the benefit of disabled Marine veterans.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

OHIOANS PLENTY PEEVED

Weatherman Hiding After Menu Of Chills, Drizzles

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5—Whatever the weatherman has in his bag of tricks for the rest of this year it will be no surprise to Ohioans.

But, for his own safety, he had better watch his step. After a chilly, soggy Summer, Ohioans are plenty peeved.

Despite the weatherman's tempo of cold Summer nights and too much rain at the wrong times, he has at least one friend —T. J. Pierce, official in charge of the weather bureau in Columbus.

Pierce came to the weatherman's defense by placing part of the blame on Ohioans who were responsible for setting the dates of outdoor events which were either washed out or at least faded out a little by rain.

• • •

THE COLUMBUS weather official guiltily admitted that the Summer nights were "just too cold" for the season but he said the amount of rain "was definitely not unusual."

However, it was rain and not the cold nights that played hops with the Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta June 17 at Marietta.

Two top link cards in Columbus, the Professional Golfers' Association tourney June 21-27 and the National Caddie Tournament, Aug. 23-25 also were dampened down. The Fourth of July holiday was a bust because of rains.

There were three rainy periods in September. The first of these came during the Ohio State Centennial Fair Aug. 27-Sept. 2.

The second landed in the middle of the National Plowing Matches at Urbana on Sept. 14 and the third caused a two-day postponement of the Little Brown Jug harness racing classic Sept. 21 at Delaware.

Pierce, still holding to his records that show no unusual amount of precipitation during the Summer, said the only exception was the 2.93-inch rain on June 16 in the Marietta area.

It was the same rain that caused flashfloods in the Muskingum river area. The flood waters swirled into the Ohio river and stirred it up so much debris that the regatta course had to be altered.

• • •

BUT FOR THE other events, Pierce contended that the planners "should have been zigging instead of zagging." He said by moving the dates of the outdoors activities "a week or so either way," the patches of rainy weather could have been averted.

Believing his explanation of the inopportune rains was enough to exonerate Mr. Weatherman, Pierce did not try to excuse him for the cold nights—those with temperatures below 60 degrees. He said the highest reading of the whole Summer in Columbus was a 94-degree day in August.

He said that during last June there were 14 below-par nights as compared with four in 1949.

July had five chillers but there were none in July, 1549. There were 13 cold nights this August but only five last year. In September, there were 15 frigid evenings but there were just nine in 1949.

The averages took big drops too. Pierce said June was 2.8 degrees below the normal average, July, 3.2 degrees below; August, 3.4 degrees too low and September, .7 degrees.

Compared with last year's temperatures, June was 7.6 degrees lower, July, 7.1; August, 1.1, and September 3.2.

Cloudiness, Pierce said, was a little more than usual this Summer, but "not worth worrying about."

HEAVY CRITICISM EXPECTED

Truman Has Difficulty Finding Defense Chiefs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—Administration sources say that the approach of victory in Korea has made it extremely difficult for President Truman to find men to fill a number of key defense posts.

They said this is one of the factors behind recent statements by the President, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and others warning the country against any let-down in the defense program.

The administration reportedly has received several turn-downs in its attempt to hire a director of economic stabilization, a price control chief, a chairman of the Wage Control Board and other important officials to handle the nation's anti-inflation program.

Recruiting efforts are understood to be in charge of W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board and the government's top defense mobilizer, and Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman.

* * *

SECRETARY OF Labor Maurice J. Tobin a few days ago indicated the difficulty the government is having in getting competent officials.

Tobin issued an order setting up a defense manpower office in the Labor Department but appointed no one to head it. His aides hinted that it may be some time before the job can be filled.

Cyrus S. Ching, 73-year-old director of the Federal Mediation Service, has been asked to head the Wage Control Board, but is reluctant to accept the post. Ching feels he can render more valuable service in trying to avert defense plant strikes.

Administration insiders say one reason private citizens are reluctant to come to Washington is that they know the stabilization program will undergo a stormy beginning when the persons in charge probably will be subjected to heavy criticism.

In addition to the defense jobs, the President also has to find five men to make up the Subversive Activities Control Board and administer the Communist-control program recently enacted by Congress over his veto.

These are said to be among the toughest posts for the White House to fill. There have been reports that Seth Richardson, who has headed the government's loyalty review program for some time, may be named chairman of the new Communist-control board.

Volume, Prices Drop At Local Livestock Sale

Both volume and prices showed a drop in this week's report of livestock sales by Pickaway County Livestock Association.

A sale of 1,389 animals was reported, a drop of 240 from last week's marketing of 1,629 head. Price drops ranged up to $2.

Cattle receipts declined from last week's 288 head to the Wednesday's sale of 210. Hog receipts, however, climbed to 700 from last week's sale of 650.

Calf receipts and sheep and lamb sales dropped off sharply. Calf volume was down to 54 head from last week's sale of 80 head, while sheep and lamb receipts skidded to 425 Wednesday from last week's marketing of 611 head.

A proposal for ending the savage conflict in Korea that might well be compared with any such untenable idea that American troops should have ended their efforts in the second European war on Normandy beachheads was studied by an astonished world today

It is reported to be the brainchild of Chou En-lai, an old-line Oriental statesman well versed in the arts of diplomacy.

Chou has been a commanding figure in the Korean war since its inception with Communist aggression across the 38th Parallel about three months ago.

From his exotically-decorated offices in what years ago was the United States embassy building not far from the old imperial palaces in Peiping, he has directed both the policies of Communist China and those of Red-controlled North Korea.

Chou has indicated that the North Koreans — subsidized by world Communism and hurled into a war of aggression that has backfired completely — are ready to "sue for peace."

On the basis of latest dispatches from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo and from front-line correspondents at Seoul and the rapidly diminishing Communist belt between the capital and the 38th Parallel to the north, Chou's suggestion seems to be an understatement almost classic in style.

* * *

THE WAR NEWS—from the Communist point of view — was so bad from all angles as to place the North Korean peace bid almost in the "incredible" category.

Chou was presented as indicating Communist willingness now to accept the United Nations cease fire order that was spurned not only with contempt but with blazing artillery fire on a Sunday last June.

His "offer" was said to provide for withdrawal of Communist troops which have killed and wounded thousands of Americans to points north of the 38th Parallel. This, of course, completely overlooks the recorded fact that these Red soldiers are scurrying for that questionable line of cover as soon as they can get there.

And finally, except for a hint of "free elections" such as have been promised but never carried out in any Soviet satellite nation anywhere in Europe or the world, is the suggestion that United States forces go back to Pusan at Korea's southeastern tip on the sea of Japan.

In view of United Nations determination to bring an end to the Korean conflict and in so doing to liquidate any haunting Soviet thoughts of new agression, Chou's offer will be accorded at least the diplomatic niceties.

This is one phase of the day and age that MacArthur can pass along, with or without comment, to the sage representatives of world nations gathered at Flushing Meadow.

What the United Nations will do, as representatives of an outraged peace, is yet to be decided.

* * *

THERE ARE diplomats at its council tables who know Chou from far back. As a Chinese Communist leader in the then Red capital of Yenan during the Sino-Japanese war he lived in a cave. When Red forces surged into power his home became a mansion in the shadow of the golden forbidden city at Peiping.

And these diplomats recall that his secretary caught him up more than once in an instantaneous correction of some translation despite his protests that he knew no tongue but his native Chinese. Chou's approach may be sincere, well-meant and constructive, but it faces a merciless scrutiny in days to come.

Louisiana Man Files $8,736 Law Suit Here

A damage suit for $8,736.35 has been started in Pickaway County common pleas court by Jesse O. Willett of Ouachita Parish, La., against the Illinois Yeast Co.

The suit grew out of the collision of two tractor-trailers on Aug. 11, 1949. The accident took place at night on Route 22 about one mile west of Williamsport.

According to the plaintiff's petition, the rig owned by the defendant was parked on the right lane of the highway facing west with trailer slewed across and blocking the left lane.

Willett states he was driving east and his truck crashed into the defendant's trailer. He claims the defendant was negligent in placing his truck across the highway, allowing it to remain there, failing to have proper lights on the sides of the trailer, giving no warning of the position of the trailer, failing to dim his headlights and failing to plant flares.

Better Buy Buick!

PERHAPS you've noticed that there seem to be a lot of these brawny beauties running around on America's highways—and it isn't just that boldly gleaming forefront that spreads this impression.

It isn't just the fact that folks who own a Buick get such a bang out of it that they do a lot of driving.

Back of all this is another fact. It's a fact that contains a broad hint to anyone who'd like to know what's what in motorcar buys. 1950 Buicks are breaking all past popularity records, as registered in sales.

So we suggest that you do some personal investigating.

Find out, for example, how masterful you feel, with Fireball power purring away the miles, at a polite touch of your toe on the gas treadle.

Find out how the jolts and jars seem to disappear, when you have big soft coil springs on all four wheels, and fat low-pressure tires on wide Safety-Ride rims.

Then there's Dynaflow Drive,* which Buick owners vote the biggest automotive hit that has come along in years.

With all this, there's room, and comfort, and road-hugging heft combined with a light and willing response to your hand on the wheel—and prices that start down with the sixes.

Seems like almost everyone wants to own one of these Buicks—and most people can. How about you? Isn't it a smart idea to see your Buick dealer now and get your name on his list?

Only BUICK has Dynaflow— and with it goes: HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD forefront, taper-through fenders • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube.

With world attention centered on the Orient, and especially on China and its behavior under Communist masters, it is well for us to know what's going on behind the scenes in this area so important to the future of Asia and, indeed, the whole world.

I've just had as my guest a Chinese business man who has spent his lifetime in China, who has had personal contact with the Chinese Communists and has observed at first hand the turn of events since they occupied the country.

He is a university graduate, a highly intelligent, unusually well-informed person; in fact, he was with American Intelligence in China during World War II.

Any war today involving the United States against world Communism would find the masses of the Chinese people "ready and anxious to revolt" against their Communist masters, he says. "But if the Communists are given 10 years in China," he says, "they will have indoctrinated our young people so thoroughly and enslaved the others so completely that any spirit of revolt remaining alive will have been rendered impotent."

This is a significant opinion in view of the theory, long projected by some of our foreign policy leaders, that China "is too big for the Communists to swallow."

* * *

"NINE-TENTHS of all the people of China are against Communism now," he says. "They would revolt if they had a chance. They have discovered by personal experience that Communism permits only a bare existence, at best, if they order their lives in the Communist mold there is absolutely no hope or promise of rising above the existence level. Though there have been severe obstacles through the centuries, my people have always been conscious of the opportunity, however difficult, for anyone to rise above the station of peasantry. The opportunity now is closed."

The communists turn a benign face to the Chinese people, he says. "But their unspoken threats loom terrible behind their politeness. To oppose or even to question their "suggestions" means imprisonment or death, or both. All Chinese people have become aware of this fact—by observation in their communities."

The Chinese people, he says, "have found, too, that the promised Communist land reforms will not materialize.

It is true that the crushingly high rentals which many landlords had imposed for generations have ceased going to the landlords, but it is not true that Chinese peasants have been "given" land. The Communist "State" in every case has retained ownership. The peasant on his parcel of land merely has changed landlords.

"He is permitted to keep from his rice harvest only a small portion above his diet requirements and with this he must meet all of the living expenses. The remainder is taken away by the Communist government. With his allotment he must earmark a quantity to exchange for the everyday family and home necessities and conserve the rest as the chief item of the family diet. The allotment represents his whole income.

* * *

"THE SEIZING of land and other wealth goes down to the lowest level of ownership. The landlord owning five acres is approached, for instance, and told he needs only one acre. Ownership of four acres is taken from him. And the Communist officials says, 'Oh, by the way, the rental you've charged during the past has been rather high. We think you should have charged ony half as much. You will please return 50 per cent of the rentals you've collected during the past three years.' To whom? To the Communist government—not the tenant! If the owner hasn't the money and can't, in desperation, raise it, he goes to prison. He is not even permitted to make installment payments with the income from the one-acre left to him."

However, he says the "graft and corruption" attributed to the Chiang regime has been 'inflated out of all proportions" by Communist propagandists, their allies and unwitting dupes. He doubts it would even be "out of scale" with the political graft and corruption in some American cities. He says also that before Communists occupied Central and South China, land reform laws had been passed by the Chiang government which would ultimately have ended the worst features of Chinese landlordism.

Tolliver Will Is Admitted To Probate Here

The will of M. C. Tolliver has been admitted to probate in Pickaway County probate court by Judge George D. Young.

The will leaves the entire estate to the widow, May McGuire Tolliver of Ashville Route 1, for life, and gives her the right to sell as much of the principal as she thinks necessary for her support and maintenance.

At her death the estate is to go in equal shares to a son, Earl Tolliver, and a daughter, Edith T. Brown, both of Ashville Route 1.

The son and daughter have been appointed co-executors of the estate, which has been estimated at $25,000. Of the total $20,000 is in real estate and $5,000 in personal property.

They Suffered a Deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron

Miss Frances Price is an attractive young lady with such beautiful complexion and sparkling personality that even at the mature age of three she attracts more than her share of admirers among the junior wolfs of Hot Springs National Park, Ark. She wasn't always the vibrant person she is today because, like her mother and her grandmother, she suffered a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin, and Iron.

Miss Price is a member of a HADACOL family because her mother and grandmother, Mrs. Kenneth Price, and Mrs. Myrtle Dyer who operates a progressive store in Hot Springs, also take HADACOL.

Here is what Mrs. Price, who had suffered deficiencies, said: "Our family sells and takes HADACOL. My mother, Mrs. Dyer, started taking HADACOL some time ago for indigestion. She had aches and pains of neuritis, but after the first three bottles of HADACOL she felt beter. I was so enthused about my mother's results that I started taking HADACOL as a dietary supplement. I was weak and run down and now feel fine. We were then worried about my three year old daughter. She was weak, and run down and her food did not agree with her. After taking HADACOL she is now brimful of energy. Her cheeks are rosy. Ours is a neighborhood store and many of our customers are just as enthusiastic as we are."

Wonderful for Both Old and Young!

This new HADACOL is simply wonderful for men, women and children of all ages who are sick and ailing because their systems are lacking these important Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin.

The important Vitamins and Minerals in HADACOL come to you in special liquid form so that they are quickly absorbed and assimilated in the blood stream, ready to go right to work at once. A big improvement is often noticed within a few days. HADACOL even builds up the red blood cellls (when Iron is needed) to carry these precious elements to every part of your body—to your kidneys, lungs, heart, liver.

Relieves Cause of Your Sickness from Such Deficiencies

HADACOL now makes it possible for you to relieve the cause of neuritis pains and a general run-down nervous condition when due to deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin.

There Should Be No Doubt

After reading Mrs. Price's wonderful experience with HADACOL—how can you doubt that this great product will help you if your system is lacking in Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin?

What HADACOL did for Mrs. Price, it can do for you if you're suffering neuritis aches and pains, or other troubles due to such deficiencies.

So what are you waiting for? Don't continue to suffer — don't continue to be miserable!

Don't Be Satisfied With Symptomatic Relief!

HADACOL is not a quick-acting pill which gives symptomatic relief—rather it acts to relieve the real cause of your pains and aches or a weak, nervous run-down condition due to such deficiencies. And continued use of HADACOL helps prevent such agonizing pains and such troubles from coming back. That's the kind of product you want—that's the kind you should buy and that's the kind you should start taking NOW!

HADACOL costs only $1.25 for a trial-size bottle. Large family or hospital size, $3.50. It is sold on a strict money-back guarantee. At any druggist.

BIG POLITICIANS WONDER

Impellitteri Has Hopes Of Being Giant-Killer

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—About 1000 B. C. David took Goliath like the Marines later took Seoul, and ever since mankind has had a sneaking admiration for any nervy little guy with a slingshot.

In this instance the nervy little guy is Vincent R. Impellitteri, acting mayor of New York, whose itchy trigger finger and slingshot have induced the shakes in both the regular Republican and Democratic organizations in this metropolis.

When Impellitteri first sat down at the piano and announced his independent candidacy for the mayoralty on the experience ticket after Tammany Hall refused to give him the nomination the boys in both the Democratic and Republican back rooms laughed like crazy.

But they have been laughing out of the other side of their combined big mouth ever since Impellitteri's ten-strike a week ago in naming Thomas F. Murphy, the Alger Hiss prosecutor, as police commissioner to investigate this graft-ridden department.

* * *

SINCE THAT DAY, the odds on the acting mayor's defeat at the polls Nov. 7 have dropped like a bride's first cake. Impellitteri may not be able to pick off both Justice Ferdinand Pecora, the Democratic candidate, and Edward Corsi, Republican nominee.

But the nervy little guy is trying against the giants and he and his slingshot have given the only color to an otherwise routine municipal election.

Down in City Hall, Impellitteri, a life-long Democrat, said it was purely coincidental that both he and his police commissioner, Mr. Murphy, are at outs with Democratic Party chieftains; Murphy because he didn't get a federal judgeship after the Hiss trials and Impellitteri because the boys in the smoke-filled rooms passed him over for Supreme Court Justice Pecora after Mayor O'Dwyer resigned.

The acting mayor, who actively served so many of O'Dwyer's years in office, said he wasn't mad at nobody until after the new American envoy to Mexico, just ten days before his resignation as mayor, pounded his desk in Impellitteri's presence and swore he had no intention of resigning before he had served his full term and "fulfilled my contract with the voters."

Impellitteri, a man with a slow burn, said the burn began when he learned of O'Dwyer's resignation from a newspaper reporter.

"I don't like to be lied to," he added. "The whole smelly political deal had been signed, sealed and delivered at the time the mayor gave me his assurances he wasn't resigning."

But this latter-day David really began exercising his slingshot arm when Carmine G. Desapio, leader of Tammany Hall, offered him a judgeship on the New York supreme court, a 14-year tenure at $28,000 annually.

"Sure, the offer was tempting," the acting hizzoner said flatly.

* * *

"IT'S THE KIND of job a man dreams about. But the principle involved was more important to me than honors or financial security. After all, they only offered me the judgeship to get me out of a job they don't want me to have and into one at which they thought I'd grab."

The acting mayor believes that no matter who is elected to the mayoralty next month, Police Commissioner Murphy will continue in office.

"No one would have the nerve to fire him. Murphy is too popular with the public. It trusts him and the candidates know it."

The acting mayor, the Walter Mitty of the campaign, believes he's going to win despite the race of Goliaths he must polish off if he is to be mayor on his own. At the moment, he feels every inch a giant killer.

Reds' Ruthless Aggression Hit By Archbishop

CINCINNATI, Oct. 5—Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati contends that the current international crisis was caused by the "ruthless aggression" of Russia.

The archbishop made his first public appearance since his installation Sunday at the annual Marian Day celebration.

"Russia has flooded the world with her evil propaganda and has begun a ruthless aggression against both the spiritual and temporal welfare of mankind. The conflict between Christian Democracy and Soviet Communism today is in simple truth a decisive struggle between freedom and slavery.

"Nations of the Christian tradition cannot cooperate in deceit, cruelty, robbery and judicial murder against fellow beings, nor in blasphemy against God."

Sokolsky's These Days

Soviet China and Soviet Russia want every European driven out of Asia. The British have lost their sense of empire. It is unimaginable that Disraeli or Canning would have failed to see through the Russian game. Can anyone imagine that even Sir Edward Grey could have failed to understand that Russia was stimulating commercial cupidity to separate Great Britain from the United States to the disadvantage of both?

The current Socialistic British government, hungry for dollars, more anxious to carry through its planned economy than to defend its national future, has played into Stalin's hand in Asia with the result that another error is in preparation:

The error of recognizing Soviet China while the war in French Indo-China is developing—a war in which Soviet China must play the leading role.

And so, we spill blood to rectify old mistakes and to make new ones. Only when the West recognizes that the mistakes of the past were mistakes, can there be a formula for peace.

COACHES CHOOSE REFEREES

Hardin Renamed To Head 1951 County Tournament

Although more than five months in the future, plans are being readied now for the 1951 Pickaway County basketball tournament.

John Hardin, superintendent of Pickaway Township school, has been reelected for his sixth term as basketball tournament manager.

Hardin, working under a strain because of the reflection of the tournament upon his position as superintendent, said he has left selection of officials for the 1951 classic in the hands of the coaches.

A list of 12 possible referees was submitted to the manager by the coaches, who voted upon their choice. Six of the officials were selected as first choice, while the remaining six were named as possible alternates.

"The six which the coaches chose for work in the tournament are Owen Sheetz, Gene Meckling, Robert Whetstone, Carlton Rayl, Jack Rhoades and John Montgomery," Hardin said.

• • •

ALTERNATES named in the event that some of the first choice selections are not available were Carl Sitterly, Paul Adams, E. J. Wilson, Jim Strausbaugh, Ray Schick and Beannie Behrens.

The coaches also agreed during the meeting to abandon the practice season restrictions which had been in force here during the last few seasons.

Formerly, schools in the county league were not permitted to begin practice until one month before the season opener. They may begin practice whenever they choose under the new setup.

This year's county basketball league season will begin Nov. 10 with Williamsport Deers invading Monroe Indians; New Holland Bulldogs visiting Scioto Buffalos; Darby Trojans travelling to the home of Pickaway Pirates; and Saltcreek Warriors invading Jackson Wildcats.

Atlanta Red Raiders and Ashville Broncos basketball teams have drawn byes for the league season opener.

In addition, the basketball mentors agreed to limit their seasons to 20 regular games.

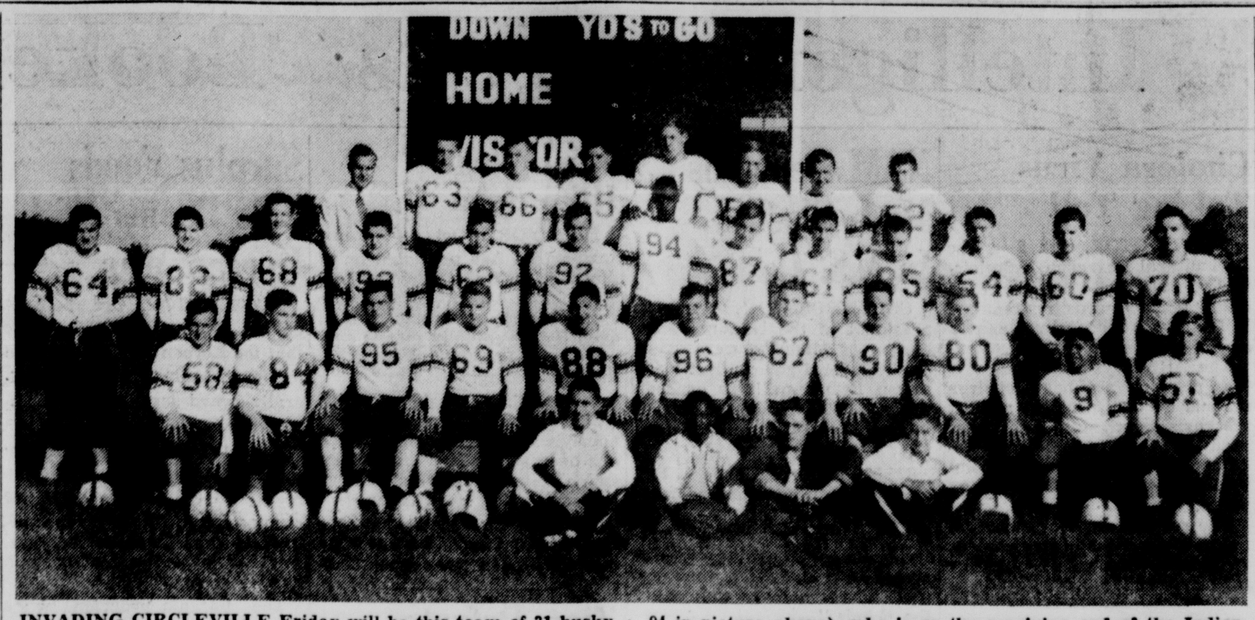

John McPherson of Darby Township school was reelected manager for the junior high basketball tournament this year, a post he has occupied during the last four years.

• • •

McPHERSON ALSO was named to head a committee to investigate new recommendations for junior high basketball as set up by the Ohio High School Athletic Association.

The coaches agreed that this year's junior contest will be governed completely by OHSAA regulations.

Other members of McPherson's committee are Donald Adams of New Holland, Lawrence Fullen of Ashville, James Bott of Duvall and W. C. Alspach of Williamsport.

INVADING CIRCLEVILLE Friday will be this team of 31 husky Hillsboro Indians, fresh from winning its last two games in its three starts this season. A definite threat to Circleville's Tiger stalwarts in the Friday fracas will be 6'6" John Jackson (number 94 in picture above), who is on the receiving end of the Indian passing attack. The Hillsboro aggregation opened its season with a narrow 14-12 loss at Lancaster BIS. During the last two sessions, however, it has posted a 13-8 victory over Portsmouth East and a 27-13 win over Portsmouth Central.

Battered Browns Ready To Limp To Pittsburgh

CLEVELAND, Oct. 5 — The Cleveland Browns, battered and bruised from their 6-0 shutout by the New York Giants, go into Pittsburgh Saturday night and nothing but the worst is expected.

Although the Steelers aren't touted as highly as the Giants, the Smoky City gridders play a bruising type of football, as do the Giants.

In a pre-season game with the Steelers, the Brownies came out on top, but by only 10 points. The score was 41-31.

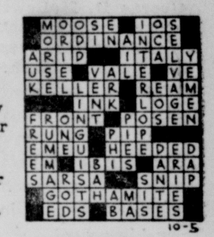

Handicapping the Browns' attack are injuries to Halfback Rex Bumgardner, Tackle Chubby Grigg and Guard Alex Agase. Bumgardner and Agase were injured in last Sunday's loss to New York and Grigg played the game with a leg injury. Coach Brown said he would like to give the mammoth tackle a week's rest.

Pittsburgh has dropped two contests already this season, an 18-7 game to New York and a 10-7 loss to Detroit, but last Sunday registered one of the major upsets of the new pro league when they trounced the Washington Redskins, 26-7.

Pitt's Sichko Not Expecting To Fumble Again

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5 — Ohio State fans may think they recognize the name of Pittsburgh's Bill Sichko in Saturday's lineup—and they'll be right.

For this same halfback fumbled a punt late in the Panther-Buckeye game last season to set up State's second touchdown and a 14-0 victory.

The embarrassed back seeks to redeem himself, however, at the expense of OSU Saturday. And the touted junior can prove his intentions if he can repeat the performance he gave for Duke.

In that game, he returned the opening kickoff of the second half 85 yards to open the scoring. Later he scooped up an unsuccessful field goal attempt by Duke in his own end zone, and without blockers, streaked to the Duke 23 before yielding to three Duke tacklers.

In addition, Sichko added 31 more to his total yardage in ten rushes. Several others were nullified by teammates' infractions.

Ohio May Hike Hunting Fee

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5—Ohio, as one of two remaining states to still charge a $1 hunting license fee, may see that last of that era today.

The state's commission is acting on a recommendation by its conservation committee to boost the license fee to $2 a year. Any increase must be made by the legislature.

Dillard Track Marks Accepted

CLEVELAND, Oct. 5 — Two track records set by Harrison Dillard, former Baldwin-Wallace college speedster, have been accepted by the International Amateur Athletic Federation in London.

Dillard, now a member of the Cleveland Indians publicity staff, ran the 220-yard low hurdles at Salt Lake City in June, 1947, in 22.3 seconds, clipping the previous mark of 22.5 seconds set by Dillard and Fred Wolcott of Rice.

The Negro track star also was given a share of the 200-meter record on the basis of the same performance. Wolcott previously held the 22.3 mark alone.

Isalys, Herald Bowlers Tally High Scores

Isalys keglers set a mark for other bowlers to shoot at Thursday.

During its final game in the Thursday men's league the Isaly quintet registered a 954-pin actual total, swelling it to 1,029-pins with handicap of 75 pins for the game.

Roy Beaty and Harold Stonerock filled in during the game with scores of 141 and 173 respectively.

Meanwhile, The Circleville Herald quintet also turned in a good performance during its third game of the evening.

Tigers Set For Indian Invasion

Hillsboro Pass Attack Is Good

Circleville's Red and Black Tiger football team ended its body contact work Wednesday in preparation for its second South Central Ohio League contest here Friday against the invading Hillsboro Indians.

Coach Steve Brudzinski said his young charges were sent through a defensive scrimmage session Wednesday to round out their training for the week.

None of the Tigers were injured during the final body-contact practice, he added.

Circleville will be seeking its 22nd victory without tie or loss since 1947 in its tilt against the Indians, along with seeking its second SCOL victory of the season.

The CHS'ers last week eked out a narrow 32-25 victory here over Wilmington Hurricane huskies to defend its championship title of two years standing.

• • •

THE TIGERS will round out this week's practice with drills and calisthenics under the lights on the high school gridiron at 7 p. m. Thursday.

Brudzinski added that he plans to have his boys attend a Booster Club meeting following the practice session in which Ivan W. Davis, grid coach here more than two decades ago, will be guest speaker.

Davis now is assistant commissioner in the Ohio High School Athletic Association, which governs all Ohio school sports activities.

Everyone who attends the final Tiger workout Thursday will be invited to hear the address.

Hillsboro will bring a record of two wins and one defeat against the Tigers Friday night.

• • •

A WEEK LATER, the same Hillsboro crew posted a meagre 13-8 victory over Portsmouth East, while appearing stronger last week to double the score on Portsmouth Central, 27-13.

Hillsboro will average about 175-pounds per man in its invasion, equal in weight with the Tigers.

Spearheading the invaders' attack is expected to be an aerial combination featuring Lionell Lyle on the tossing end and 6'6" John Jackson as receiver.

Hillsboro will have more depth than the Tigers in reserve strength during the contest. The Indians are expected to dress 31 players, while the Tiger roster contains only 25 names.

Probable starters for the invaders will be:

Ends—Jackson and Dave Smith.

Tackles—Tom Hummell and Ralph Lowell.

Guards—Dick Vance and Jack Kessler.

Center—Roger Hart.

Backs—Lionell Lyle, Leroy Wilkin, Dick Clements and Tom Wagner.

Ez Sez Joe Can Try Again

CINCINNATI, Oct. 5—Defeated Champion Joe Louis can have a return bout with Ezzard Charles, the new world's heavyweight king, any time he wants it.

Charles issued the offer last night when he brought his title home to Cincinnati and received a hero's welcome.

The grinning, confident champ said:

Floating Dream Sets 2 Marks

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 5—Floating Dream held two new world's records today plus her victory in the $13,576 Sheppard Memorial Stake at Lexington.

The two-year-old filly pacer's 2:00 4-5 in the second mile of the two-heat race yesterday set a new mark for her age and gait and her combined time for the two heats—4:03 2-5—shaved six seconds from the old record.

Jim Konstanty Ready To Go At Big Yanks Again

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5—Big Jim Konstanty said today that he'd like to get another shot at the Yankees and he probably will—maybe even today.

The bespectacled righthander of Philadelphia bullpen fame distinguished himself as a starter yesterday though he lost a tight 1-0 decision to the world champs.

"I'd like to go at them again," Konstanty said. "I'll be ready any time the skipper asks."

Manager Eddie Sawyer, who named Robin Roberts as his starter for the second game was asked when Konstanty "would be ready" for his next assignment.

Undoubtedly, the man who went to the well a record 74 times during the regular season will get further relief calls before this Series is over. And if it goes long enough he may even get another start.

His palm ball and slider had the Yankee big guns baffled all through the first game. The Yankees managed only five hits off him in the eight innings he worked.

Rocky Scores KO Over Burton

CHICAGO, Oct. 5—Rocky Graziano may not be the greatest middleweight ever to put on a pair of boxing gloves, but he is the fighter the man-in-the-street wants to see.

The roughneck from New York's Lower East Side came to Chicago where the punch-on-the-nose sport has been dead for some time. And last night he drew the second largest gate of the year in his seventh round knock out of Gene Burton.

Comprehensive Intelligence Tests Booked In Schools

Three Days Set Up By Educators

Exams To Give Vocational Guidance

George D. McDowell, county superintendent of schools, said three dates have been set aside this month for teacher-training sessions.

The superintendent said the Kuder youth inventory testing program was discussed during a meeting of county school administrators Tuesday in Jackson Township school.

McDowell said the tests are designed for all of the youngsters in the county system and are used for vocational guidance reference.

All county teachers of grades one and two in the county are to meet Oct. 24 with an expert to be trained in administering the test, McDowell said.

* * *

TEACHERS OF grades three, four, five and six are to meet with the expert Oct. 25, while teachers of the remainder of the grades through high school are to meet Oct. 26.

McDowell said the instruction course will be delivered by E. S. Hayes, formerly of the University of Cincinnati.

In addition, a reading specialist is to be in the county system Friday to give teachers reading habit tips.

The superintendent said the tips will be given by a Miss Ringer, a representative of the book firm which supplies the schools with reading courses. She is to be in Pickaway Township school in the morning, McDowell said, and probably will visit another school in the afternoon.

Other business of the administrator's meeting was the re-election of Superintendent Harold Strous of Saltcreek Township school as executive secretary for the administrators' organization.

Strous was reelected to serve his fourth term in the office.

Judson Lanman, Williamsport school head, delivered a report to the group of the September camp workshop in Miami university.

The meeting was ended with a report on driver training by Walter Harris, superintendent of Ashville school.

The Ashville school, along with Walnut Township school, has added driver education to its curriculum this year.

ICC Reports 'Failure' In Train Wreck

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 — The Interstate Commerce Commission reported late yesterday that "failure to operate in accordance with signal indications" caused the Ohio train collision last month in which 33 Pennsylvania National Guardsmen perished.

The crash occurred Sept. 13 near Coshocton, O., when the Pennsylvania railroad's crack "Spirit of St. Louis" hurtled at high speed into the rear end of a troop train which had stopped for repairs.

Besides bringing death to the Guardsmen, the crash injured 287 other persons.

The ICC reported that when the troop train stopped, emergency warning signals were given to the passenger train, but that they were not acknowledged.

W. E. Eller, engineer of the "Spirit of St. Louis," testified that his visibility was restricted by fog and that he applied the brakes as soon as he saw the stop signals.

The ICC investigators said that almost immediately afterward the engineer and fireman of the passenger train saw the troop train and applied emergency brakes which reduced speed to 48 miles per hour at the time of the crash.

South Pickaway Extension To Be Aired Here

A petition to extend South Pickaway street about 500 feet beyond the city limits is being considered by Pickaway County commissioners.

The petition, containing 36 names, was submitted to the county chiefs Sept. 19, 1949. A previous petition asking for the same thing was dismissed by the commissioners in 1948.

Present request asks for the extension of the two streets to meet a proposed lane which, in turn, would extend to Route 23. The lane would have to be 30 feet wide to comply with state law. A 20-foot private lane now existing would have to be taken over and widened.

* * *

ACCORDING to the petition, the project would affect lands owned by B. F. and F. Radabaugh, W. L. Pence, G. Hanchire, Allen R. Isaac, C. Stonerock, E. Wilson, L. B. Lutz and J. B. Ankrom.

Commissioners have set the date for viewing the proposed extension for 2 p. m. Oct. 16. Hearing on the project will be at 2 p. m. Oct. 24.

Cholera Virus Taking Toll

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 — The Agricultural Research Administration says that a new variation of hog cholera virus has resulted in losses of recently-vaccinated hogs.

The ARA says that many of the regular anti-hog - cholera serums do not protect against the variant when the dosages used are not appreciably increased over the amount commonly recommended for many years.

The research agency says that the new variation of hog cholera virus was recognized for the first time in 1949.

General Fund Balance Listed At $10,196

Circleville's general operating fund showed a balance of $10,196.98 as of the end of September.

City council was told Tuesday that only two more distributions, expected to run about $23,000, will be added to the fund before next May.

The city fathers gave special commendation to a report from the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller, listed at $1,158 in fines, licenses and traffic and bonds.

Parking meter collections during the month totalled $1,709.80 and admission tax collection totalled $258.70.

Complete financial report, showing, in that order, receipts first, expenditures and balance at the end of the month, follows:

General fund $7,659.11, $3,118.80, $10,196.98; Water works Operating fund 5,836.44, 10,119.52, 10,529.10; Sewage disposal fund 523.25, 1,505.19, 1,906.85; Auto st. repair fund 360.93, 2,516.76, 7,940.04; Gasoline tax fund 2,899.00, 1,920.84, 5,950.86.

NAM Demands More Slashes In U.S. Costs

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5 — The president of the National Association of Manufacturers called on the federal government today to cut its non-military expenditures to help finance the defense program and to combat inflation.

NAM President Claude A. Putnam told a Columbus audience: "Let government pull in its belt, too. Let's have some austerity in government, too. This is an emergency for the people's government as well as for the people."

He was addressing the 24th annual Interstate Conference of Employment Security Agencies.

Putnam agreed with Labor Secretary Tobin who urged yesterday the maximum use of all available manpower and natural resources and the expansion of existing facilities or th building of new ones.

He also recommended financing military expenditures by 'current taxes, encouraging savings by sound tax policies, regulating spending power by sound tax, fiscal and credit policies to stimulate production expansion, and, finally, no deficit spending.

Steel Wage Hike Seen

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—The magazine Iron Age predicted today that the CIO-United Steelworkers of America will press for a substantial increase in steel wages, even if it eventually means calling upon a fact-finding board for the final ruling.

The publication said the union will turn down a five or six cents hourly wage increase offer which has been set as the maximum which some steel firms will go without raising steel prices.

Thus, it concluded that the steel industry faced both a wage increase and a price increase.

Zion Defeats Blue Laws Again

ZION, Ill., Oct. 5 — They like their Sunday sports and diversions in Zion—especially after more than a year in which to try them out.

Residents repealed the town's famed blue laws — banning all Sabbath labor, business and amusement except works of charity and public protection—in 1949 by a margin of 15 votes.

In a second vote on the issues yesterday, the turned down the Sunday restrictions again by a vote of 1,746 to 966.

Surplus Foods Sale Booms With Korean War

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—Agriculture Department officials say that the Korean war has spurred foreign interest in obtaining federally-owned surplus farm commodities.

Since the end of June, department officials say, the government sold $30 million worth of surplus commodities, both perishables and semi-perishables, from its export sales bargain list.

The bargain program was started last January. From that time to the end of June, the government could sell only about $10 million worth of the surpluses. But shortly after the war broke out, foreign interest was stimulated and buying was on a larger scale.

Ralph S. Trigg, head of the Commodity Credit Corp. and boss of price support operations points out that the commodities sold to foreign countries are not needed for the defense program.

He says: "This (program) helps us move inventories which are not needed in our own defense effort, and it does it in a sound and practical way."

North Korea Starts Its Defense

Rok Forces Now 67 Miles North

TOKYO, Oct. 6 — (Friday) — Thousands of Allied troops massed below the 38th Parallel today for an all-out push into North Korea in support of South Korean forces which bumped into a stiff enemy counterattack-67 miles above the border.

The Red counter-assault, the first launched by North Koreans since Korean republican troops dashed across the border last Sunday, was in sub-battalion strength. It was repulsed three miles above Changjon, 43 miles below North Korea's major port of Wonsan.

The counter-assault was mounted despite a day-long pounding of Red positions in the area by American warplanes. Although the counter-attack was repulsed it checked the swift northward advance of the South Korean Third Division.

• • •

AN ENEMY battalion and a Red marine company halted South Korean Third Division spearheads in a furious battle which began at noon Thursday three miles above Changjon, International News Service War Correspondent Lee Ferrero reported.

In a dispatch received from that sector at 9:45 Thursday night, Ferrero said the fighting still raged and the North Koreans had not yet given ground.

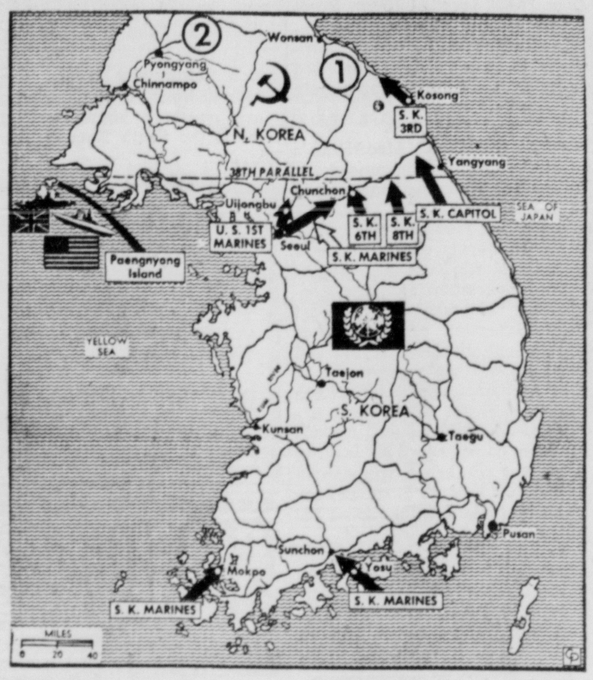

A threat to the Rok (Republic Of Korea) Third Division's deep flank was revealed in the dispatch which said a concentrated force of 1,200 Reds was fighting South Korean Capitol Division troops just west of Hwangpori. The latter North Korean town is 35 miles below Changjon.

U. S. Fifth Airforce pilots reported meanwhile that North Korean troops were attempting to reoccupy their former positions just above the parallel on the west side of the peninsula.

These positions, from which the Reds launched their invasion of South Korea June 25, were bombed and strafed by Fifth Airforce planes that flew 194 sorties over the area Thursday.

NORTH KOREAN RED troops are reported massing at Wonsan (1), with reinforcements pouring into Pyongyang area (2) from north. The South Korean 3rd Division is forging northward along the coast from Kosong as other South Korean divisions (black arrows) press north to form a wider front. U. S. Marines captured Uijongbu, north of Seoul, as Paengnyong island was attacked with shelling and carrier planes. South Korean marine units made mop-up landings in the south.

RED MOTIONS VOTED DOWN

UN Expected To Give Mac Go Ahead In Korea Fight

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 5—The United Nations General Assembly was called today to take final action tomorrow on a Korean peace plan containing a UN mandate for occupation of North Korea.

The 60-member UN Political Committee approved the proposal drawn up by eight Western nations by an overwhelming 47-to-5 vote last night and forwarded it to the assembly for adoption. There were seven abstentions.

The negative votes were cast by the Russian bloc which had stumped for a "peace" plan submitted by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky. Lebanon, Egypt, Syria, Yemen, India, Afghanistan and Yugoslávia abstained. Indonesia, the newly-admitted UN member, did not participate in the balloting.

UN observers believe that if Gen. Douglas MacArthur is awaiting official endorsement to cross the 38th Parallel, he will have it from UN by tomorrow night. Only 40 votes are needed for adoption of the resolution.

• • •

BEFORE ADJOURNING until next week, the political committee, at the request of U. S. Delegate John Foster Dulles, decided to deal next with Secretary of State Acheson's proposal to give the assembly power to act within 24 hours against threats to the peace.

The proposal calls also for a standing United Nations army and roving UN peace patrol to observe endangered areas.

Vishinsky agreed after the political committee gave third place on the agenda to his own motion for a five-power peace plan condemning war incitement.

The Russian resolution calling for a cease-fire and withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea was defeated in a roll-call vote on which only the five Soviet bloc states stood up and voiced affirmative ballots. Eight member nations abstained.

The political committee also rejected Russia's resolution directing the assembly to call on the United States to halt all bombings and strafings of Korea. The vote was 51 to 5.

Price Increases To Bring More Taxes--Bricker

The warning was sounded by Sen. Bricker, (R) Ohio, who said he hoped such a general tax increase will not be necessary. Any further tax jump would come on top of an increase which went into effect last Sunday.

Bricker said that as the situation is now, he saw no reason for price controls. He said the administration has other means of staving off inflation, which he termed the nation's number one domestic problem.

Asked in an interiew hov he thought the situation could be handled without price controls, Bricker replied:

"If sufficient money is taken off (the buying market) by taxes, if bonds are sold to the public instead of to the banks, and if there is proper allocation of

Brutal Murder Comes In Midst Of Series Game

ZANESVILLE, Oct. 5 — The radio blared and the ticker chattered with an account of the first game of the World Series, but it was over at the end of the third inning for a 63-year-old Zanesville poolroom operator who had been murdered.

James Omen, sitting alone in the poolroom yesterday was beaten to death with a pool cue and a bed slat and his throat was ripped open with a dull knife.

Police are to question more suspects today. Omen, apparently struck from behind, was sitting in a chair with his shoes off. His white socks were unsoiled, indicating he was killed without a struggle.

Police theorized that he died in the Yankee half of the fourth inning. Omen was posting the score on a blackboard and the scoring ended with the third. The fourth inning began shortly before 1:45 p. m.

The body, sprawled out on the floor in a pool of blood, was found an hour later by Elmer Buckley, a soft drink truck driver. Near the battered body the pool cue and bed slat were found. The No. 6 pool ball was missing from a table beside Omen, but was found in a stove, partially burned.

Cost Of War: 2954 Dead GIs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 — The Defense Department announced today that American casualties in Korea up to Sept. 29 totalled 20,756, including 2,954 dead.

Of the dead, 2,660 were killed in action. The others died of wounds. The wounded totaled 13,953 and 4,153 are listed as missing in action.

Of the total casualties, 19,290 were suffered by the Army, 89 by the Navy, 1,237 by the Marine Corps and 140 by the Airforce.

21 U.S. Sailors Missing As Ship Hits Red Mine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 — The Defense Department announced today that the U. S. Minesweeper Magpie sank off the east coast of Korea after striking a mine and that 21 members of the ship's crew are missing.

Twelve survivors of the Magpie's crew were picked up by a sister ship, the Minesweeper Merganser and taken to Pusan, Korea.

The Magpie, a wooden-hulled vessel 136 feet in length, struck a mine on her starboard side Oct. 1 near the city of Ch'Uksma-Dong and sank about two miles offshore.

The Magpie is the first U. S. naval vessel reported lost in the Korean war and third American ship to strike a mine off Korea. The other two, the Destroyers Brush and Mansfield, were damaged but made port safely.

Eleven men were killed, three missing and 10 wounded from the Brush. The Mansfield suffered no fatalities, but seven men were injured.

Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, chief of naval operations, recently told the House Armed Services Committee that numerous mines of Russian-make have been floating in Korean waters.

BRONX BOMBERS PLATE SINGLE RUN

Yankees Take Lead Over Whiz Kids In Second Battle Of World Series

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5—The mighty New York Yankees, veterans at winning world championships, held a 1-0 lead here this afternoon in the top of the third inning of the second game of the World Series against the underdog Philadelphia Phillies. The Bronx Bombers plated a single run in the top of the second inning.

Starting lineups for today's second game of the 1950 World Series between the Yankees and the Phillies:

Yankees	Phillies
Woodling, lf	Waitkus, 1b
Rizzuto, ss	Ashburn, cf
Berra, c	Sisler, lf
Di Maggio, cf	Ennis, rf
Mize, 1b	Jones, 3b
Brown, 3b	Hamner, ss
Bauer, rf	Seminick, c
Coleman, 2b	Goliat, 2b
Reynolds, p	Roberts, p

Before-game ceremonies today were limited to the playing of the National Anthem.

Play-by-play of the game follows.

FIRST INNING

YANKEES: Woodling beat out a hit to short. Seminick went back to the third base stands to take Rizzuto's foul popup. Berra dropped a single into left sending Woodling to third. Di-Maggio popped to Goliat on the outfield grass. Woodling fell down between third and home, but slid back to third safely. Mize fouled to Seminick. No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

PHILLIES: Coleman threw out Waitkus. Ashburn lined a hit which Bauer dived for but could not hold and it went for a double. Sisler fanned. Coleman threw out Ennis. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

SECOND INNING

YANKEES: Brown lined out to Ashburn. Bauer fouled to Jones. Coleman walked. Reynolds sliced a single to right sending Coleman to third. Woodling beat out an infield hit to score Coleman and send Reynolds to second. Rizzuto flied to Ashburn. One run, two hits, no errors, two left.

The scene moves to Yankee Stadium, New York, for games tomorrow, Saturday and—if necessary—Sunday.

The Phils, who, including yesterday's 1-0 series loss to the Yanks, have dropped ten of their last 12 games, sought to recapture their pennant ways by sending their acknowledged ace, the right-handing Robin Roberts, to the pitching hill this coldish but sunny day.

Against him, the Yankees threw smoke-balling Allie Reynolds, creator of a 2-hit 1-to-0 shutout in the Series against the Dodgers last year.

The flags and banners decking the green roof tops of ancient old Shibe Park flapped whippingly in a brisk cold wind blowing towards the outfield from home plate—a harbinger, perhaps, of a violent hitting jag today to break the drab perfection established yesterday.

There were only seven hits, six of them singles and one of the six a scratch, throughout yesterday's opener.

• • •

THE YANKEES, 13-to-5 Series favorites and 8-to-5 opening game choices before the start of play yesterday, now are 6-to-1 to win the Series.

The 60-degree weather kept reserved seat ticketholders from showing early at the ball park

The Philly management, understandably new to the ways of handling Series tickets after going 35 years between pennants, actually held out 2,000 opening-game tickets that never were bought. These seats, however, were placed on sale directly after yesterday's game.

The zany madcap of jubilance that has captivated the City of Brotherly Love over the Phillies' first National League pennant in 35 years was transformed into a tight-lipped confidence today that the Whiz Kids can still win the World Series.

Outwardly undaunted because their darling peppermint-striped boys failed to whip the New York Yankees in yesterday's Series' inaugural, the loyal rooters maintained as today's encounter started:

"We're just one down, but not out."

The town's Phillie fans—some two million strong—lost some of their brash assuredness after the Yankee 1-0 win behind the splendid two-hit hurling of Vic Raschi, but retained a more reserved confidence in their diamond darlings.

One cab driver weaving through game traffic commented:

• • •

IN STORES AND restaurants festooned with decorative bunting and bedecked with pinup pictures of the Whiz Kids, it was the same story.

A waitress thought the young Phils may have had a little stage fright yesterday.

"But today it will be different when my Robbie goes in there," said she proudly.

Her "Robbie," is the Phillie 20-game winner, Robin Roberts, who beat Brooklyn Sunday in the Brooklyn thriller to clinch the pennant. He started today against the Yankees' Allie Reynolds.

The general cry this morning was for "just a few more hits."

Another sellout was in prospect at old Shibe Park where topcoats were the fad and necessity on this crisp, cloudy day.

But that didn't necessarily mean a packed house of 34,000. Yesterday's scene at the ballgrounds showed blocks of seats—which had been paid for—remain empty throughout the game, indicative of the wallets of some ticket scalpers who had it as rough as the Phils.

The scalpers also learned to their amazement that fabulous Texans know that there are bills of small denominations.

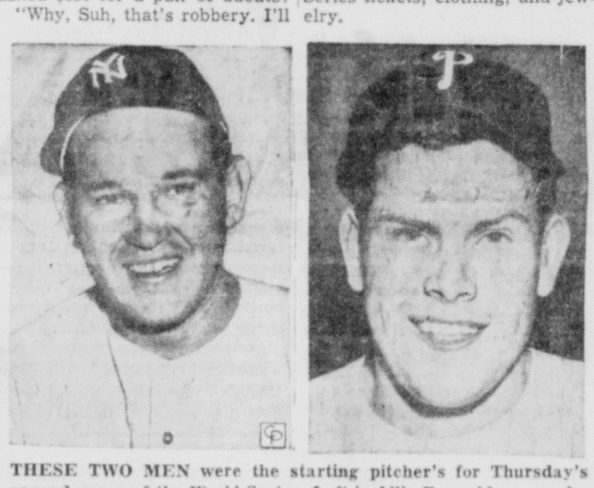

One was told by Herman Glenn Wiggins, well-to-do Dallas businessman of whom he had asked $150 for a pair of ducats: "Why, Suh, that's robbery. I'll give you $50 apiece and not a cent more."

• •

AND THAT'S what the smart money boy accepted, but to his dismay, because he was promptly nabbed by three vice squad members.

Most of the fans took the business about sellout crowds so seriously that they were astonished to find only small lines at the bleacher entrance where 3000 seats are sold at the park. Few were turned away.

The city's brotherly love seems confined only to the Phillies. Vic Raschi may have won yesterday's game, but he lost quite a few of his belongings when his hotel room was looted of two suitcases containing 140 Series tickets, clothing, and jewelry.

Senators Open Probe Of Chicago Crime Syndicate

CHICAGO, Oct. 5—The Senate Crime Committee today begins the Chicago appearance of its touring investigation and Chairman Kefauver, (D) Tenn., said Illinois Gov. Adlai Stevenson will be invited to appear before the group.

Kefauver said 50 subpenas have been served on prospective witnesses and 40 others, including Jake Guzik, Capone syndicate general manager, are being sought.

High on the committee's agenda during its Chicago visit, the senator said, will be an inquiry into the Sept. 25 gangland-style killings of Ex-Police Lt. William Drury and Attorney Marvin Bas, a Republican politician. But Kefauver added:

"We are not trying to solve murders. We want to know whether those two men were killed because of our investigation. If so, there will be prosecution."

Kefauver disclosed that Boris Kostelanetz, former assistant U. S. attorney, has been appointed a special committee counsel to coordinate the New York-New Jersey phase of the committee's inquiry.

Kostelanetz, successful prosecutor in the million dollar movie extortion plot several years ago, will seek to determine whether gambling interests centered at New York's Saratoga race track are linked with a singl gambling syndicate operating in Chicago, Miami and Kansas City.

PARLEY WITH JOE SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—Official Washington watched today for the Kremlin's reaction to Harold E. Stassen's proposal that he confer personally again with Soviet Premier Stalin.

While congressional response to Stassen's message to Stalin was cool, the State Department's first concern was to make it emphatically clear the former Minnesota governor was not speaking for the United States government.

There was some fear that Stalin might mistakenly believe that Stassen's appeal was officially inspired, despite the Republican's statements to the contrary.

Stassen made these twin announcements in Washington:

1. He has written Stalin, through the Soviet embassy in Washington, urging that Russia "stop the drift toward war" and proposing further discussions either through correspondence or conferences. The Russian embassy said it had forwarded the letter to Stalin.

2. He is taking a leave of absence from his post as president of the University of Pennsylvania to survey conditions in Asia in November and December. The trip will be financed by a "major foundation" which he would not identify.

Stassen said he based his action on his fear that Russia might "miscalculate and misunderstand" America's strength and intentions.

He said the time was ripe for a statement from an active member of the minority party to convince the Soviets of America's position on world peace.

Stassen announced that if there is no official conference with Stalin, as he has previously urged upon President Truman, he would hope that he and four or five "top citizen leaders" could sit down with the Soviet leader. Stassen emphasized that their discussions would be made public, as was his 1947 talk with Stalin in Moscow.

• • •

Sen. Bricker, (R) Ohio, said that "if there is a conference, I hope it would be productive of something that's good."

Sen. Thomas, (D) Okla., said it would be pointless because only the President can fix foreign policy and "Stalin knows that." Thomas said such a meeting would only produce "publicity for Mr. Stassen."

Rep. Durham, (D) N. C., said he didn't think "any man as thoroughly devoted to Communism as Stalin is can be talked out of it."

23 Are Hurt In Train Wreck

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 5 — Twenty-three persons were injured here today when a crack New York Central flyer crashed into a tank car that had cracked a wheel and jumped onto the main tracks.

Seven of the injured were detained in Erie hospitals, although authorities said none of the injured was seriously hurt.

Veteran railroad men said it was a "miracle" there was no loss of life or more serious injuries. The wreck scene was described as a "mess."

$1005 Ordered Paid Back To State

Chiseling on state unemployment compensation boomeranged Thursday to bring four Circleville men into the hands of the law.

The four were finned a total of $1,200 and sentenced to an aggregate of 360 days in Pickaway County jail. Mayor Thurman I. Miller, however, suspended the jail terms and part of the fines.

A total of $1,005 in rebates was ordered paid back to the state.

Haled before Mayor Miller were Clifford Coates, 40, of 478 Half avenue; Donald Miller, 21, of 712 South Washington street; Lindsey Hill, 54, of Hayward avenue and William B. Teets, 38, of Circleville Route 3.

Schindler accused the men of drawing checks for unemployment compensation at a time when each was self-employed.

• • •

HE DECLARED that each of the defendants had drawn more BUC money than was stated in the affidavits, explaining that each affidavit was only for the first week of each man's offense. According to state law each week could be counted a separate offense.

"Actually," he said, "each of these men drew compensation for several weeks. And during this time they were self-employed."

The employment consisted of hauling baled straw for Container Corporation of America, he said.

The affidavit against Coates accused him of drawing $30 compensation during the week ending Nov. 19, 1949. Schindler said his actual debt to BUC is $600.

Coates was fined $300 and costs and sentenced to 90 days days in jail. Mayor Miller suspended the jail sentence.

"You understand," said the mayor to Coates, "that you've got to pay this $600 back to the state. However, that's a matter between you and the bureau. But since you've got to work in order to get the cash, and you can't work while you're in jail, I am suspending the sentence."

The mayor said essentially the same thing to Hill when he suspended a 90-day jail sentence and $200 of a $300 fine. The affidavit against Hill was virtually the same as the one against Coates.

• • •

SCHINDLER explained to the court that Hill's total debt to the state amounted to $90.

Donald Miller also was fined $300 and sentenced to 90 days in jail, with the jail term and $200 of the fine suspended. Schindler said his total debt to the bureau

Dewey Expert On One Subject

OLEAN, N. Y., Oct. 5—There's no grass growing under New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's feet these days as he stumps the state for a third term—and for good reason.

"Anybody who thinks the election is in the bag is making a great mistake. I am a leading authority on the subject of overconfidence. I am the best witness in the United States of the danger of thinking anything is settled before the votes are counted."

is $67.50. The affidavit against him accused him of drawing $22.50 in unemployment compensation.

The same fine and sentence was given Teets. The mayor suspended the jail term and $100 of the fine. Schindler said his total debt was $247.50.

The special investigator said that no rigid deadline will be set for the men to pay back the money.

"It all depends on individual circumstances," he said.

Schindler explained that persons registered for unemployment compensation are required by law to report all earnings, regardless of the source.

If the earnings come from self-employment, no compensation can be drawn.

But if a person is employed by another person or company and his weekly wage is less than the amount of his compensation, then the BUC will make an adjustment.

* * *

C. C. THOMAS, local BUC manager, explained it this way:

"If the person is drawing $25 a week unemployment compensation and he gets a job paying him $10 a week, then an adjustment will be made to pay him $15 a week compensation.

"If his wage is only $2 a week, he gets his full compensation check. But over that there must be an adjustment."

Protective Group Membership Up

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said 20 more men joined the organization during the session, while badges were issued to the other 135 members.

"Fairfield, Fayette and Union Counties are interested in forming the same kind of organization," Radcliff said. "I have given them information as to how the local group was formed."

The sheriff added that uniform caps have arrived for the members and will be distributed soon.

Correction Is Made

In its Wednesday report of the sale of the W. J. Goodman farm, The Circleville Herald incorrectly reported that the buyer was W. W. Wilson of Upper Sandusky. Correct name of the buyer is Ward W. Walton.

Goodman, in calling the matter to the Herald's attention, revealed that actual selling price of the 615-acre tract was $160,000, including crops.

Woman Hurt In Collision

Columbus authorities reported Mrs. McFarland was injured when her husband's auto collided with a car driven by a Columbus woman at Fifth avenue and Olentangy River Road.

any materials which are short, you would not need to put on price controls.

The Ohio senator said he thought prices have risen because the other programs he mentioned have not been put into operation. He continued:

"But if prices continue to go up, we will have to have a further tax increase. It is not fair to the boys to say they have to fight the war and pay for it too when they come home."

Bricker declared that an excess profits tax will have to be approved but, he said, this is a ticklish measure which needs careful study to prevent it from backfiring.

He argued that in peacetime, an excess profits tax could well kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

Woman Driver Said Reckless, Is Fined $25

A Chillicothe woman was fined for reckless operation early Thursday following a traffic accident on Route 23 north of South Bloomfield.

Officer Mack Wise said Mrs. Mary A. Bunstine, 24, of Chillicothe, had attempted to pass a truck and another auto at about 8:30 a. m. Thursday after the other car had signalled for a left turn.

Wise said the Bunstine car crashed into the rear left side of the turning auto, operated by Benjamin Cheney, 55, of Columbus. Cheney suffered a minor back injury, Wise said.

Mrs. Bunstine was fined $25 and costs later in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root for reckless operation.

April 8 Knot Untied By Judge

A marriage that began last April 8 has been ended with a divorce decree by Judge William D. Radcliff in Pickaway County common pleas court.

The divorce was awarded to Mary L. Williams from Frank Williams who was found guilty of gross neglect. The couple entered into a separation agreement July 27 in which each disclaimed rights to the other's property. The agreement was made part of the divorce.

Burial will be in Green Summit cemetery, Adelphi, under the direction of Loring Hill Funeral Home, Kingston.

Drunken Driver Penalty Varies With The Judge

Two drunken drivers were arraigned before two different Circleville courts. One received only a simple fine while the other was assessed a fine—and a jail sentence.

Arthur Samuel Wright, 32, of Dover, received only a $100 and costs fine in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for his offense.

However, Paul Bocook, 20, of Jackson was given the $100 and costs fine and a 15-day sentence in Pickaway County jail as a little something extra to remember.

Magistrate Oscar Root administered the extra reminder when Bocook faced his court. The magistrate is following the plan that "days" will be remembered longer than just money fines.

Bocook was arrested on Route 23 north of Circleville by Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff. Wright was arrested on West Main street by Officer Harold Green.

Mills Brothers Circus To Winter In Columbus

Mills Brothers Circus, which in years past always wintered in Circleville, is switching cold weather stamping grounds to Columbus.

The three Mills Brothers, Jack, Jake and Harry, all of Cleveland, have leased space on the state fairgrounds for their show's Winter stay.

Fred Stafford, circus official, said the Mills had desired for some time to have their show hibernate in Columbus. The past three Winters were spent on Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

The circus was said to need more room. Headquarters will be set up in the Junior Fair Building where an arena will be available to practice animal acts.

The first circus units will pull into Columbus about Nov. 17 after a final show in Augusta, Ga. The show is to stay at the fairgrounds until mid-April.

5 Vocal Music Groups Booked

There will be no lack of vocal music in this year's Circleville Pumpkin Show starting Oct. 18.

The music will be supplied by five groups. They are Circleville high school choir, girls glee clubs of Scioto, Saltcreek and Washington Townships and Trinity Lutheran Junior Choir.

According to Program Director James P. Shea, baton twirling and amateur contests will be sponsored by Circleville Booster Club this year.

GEN. DOUGLAS MacArthur's briefing officer announced in Tokyo late Thursday that a force of B-29 Superforts smashed the marshalling yards at Nanam, 65 miles southwest of the narrow Siberian-North Korean frontier.

The spokesman said the devastating raid was carried out after Superfort reconnaissance flights had disclosed a marked increase of train movements in that northeast corner of North Korea.

Nanam is a major coastal junction on a railroad leading north via Southeast Manchuria to Russia's kingpin Siberian naval base of Vladivostok, some 150 miles away.

Nanam lies six miles below Chongjin, a big North Korean port of entry for ocean traffic from Siberia. It is 210 miles northeast of Wonsan, below which Communist troops were making their first organized stand on their home territory against the South Korean Third Division.

William P. Hill, 28, of Jackson, forfeited $10 bond in city mayor's court Wednesday for failing to answer an accusation of operating an unmuffled truck.

Hill was arrested on North Court street by Officers Harold Green and Carl Thompson, who said the man's truck was equipped with a straight exhaust.

Arthur L. King of North East, Pa., was fined $15 and costs in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for passing in a non-passing zone on Route 23.

Experts Advise On Soft Corn

Recommendations Are Detailed

COLUMBUS, Sept. 29—Extension agronomists at Ohio State university today began bringing up-to-date their recommendations about what to do about soft corn in Ohio.

No figures are as yet available on the extent of frost damage to corn over the weekend, but spot checks by the agronomists indicate some Ohio corn, particularly that in the northern portion of the state, was hit by frost.

One of the agronomists, E. P. Reed, made available today the following information so individual farmers may estimate the extent of frost damage:

If frost does not strike until corn is mature—has 35 percent or less moisture with kernels fully dented and no milk at the kernel base—no reduction in yield results.

When ears are in the late milk stage, kernels are only 50 percent developed; in the soft dough stage, 70 to 75 percent developed, and in the hard dough stage, 90 percent developed.

* * *

REED EXPLAINED that this did not mean, however, that corn frosted at these stages will suffer corresponding losses in yield because there is considerable translocation of sugar from the stalk to the ear even after corn is badly frosted or cut and shocked.

This indicates that the biggest yields of corn from frosted fields will be realized if the corn is left standing in the field until it is more nearly ready to crib.

Reed said cutting and shocking will not prove to be the most profitable way to handle the soft corn crop unless the field must be immediately cleared for what seeding or serious stalk breakage is occurring.

Frosted corn may be put into the silage, the agronomist added, and this often is one of the best methods of salvaging the crop. On a dry matter basis, the silage is just as good, pound for pound, as that from mature corn. Silage from immature corn may contain, however, 15 to 20 percent less dry matter.

UNIVERSITY TESTS CITED

Ammoniated Toothpowder Found To Slash Decay

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 — Preliminary results of a two-year long dentifrice study among more than 700 Peoria, Ill., school children have been released and indicated that ammoniated toothpowder, properly used, reduced dental decay by 20.5 percent.

The study was made under the auspicies of the University of Illinois college of dentistry and the Illinois state health department in an effort to get a reliable indication of just what an ammoniated dentifrice can accomplish.

Dr. Robert G. Kesel of the university, who developed the first ammoniated toothpowder, said the results of the Peoria test fully confirm limited tests made several years ago with medical and dental students.

"Guinea pigs" in the test were 716 children in the fifth, sixth and seventh grades in the Peoria public schools.

They brushed their teeth under the direction of their teachers every school day at 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. and were put on the honor to brush their teeth at home after the evening meal on school days and during vacations and weekends.

* * *

BEFORE THE tests began, each child had his teeth carefully cleaned and then checked for cavities by examiners from the state health department.

Dr. Kesel said three types of dentifrices were used. One was an ordinary non-ammoniated tooth powder; the second was the University of Illinois foundation powder containing five percent ammonium phosphate and three percent carbamide. A third contained ammonium and a special clay.

Best results were given by the plain ammoniated toothpowder, which slashed decay by 20.5 percent over a control group which brushed their teeth according to their usual habits.

Children who used just the non-ammoniated tooth powder had 9.3 percent lower decay rate than did the controlees.

Columbus Sets Up Civilian Defense Department

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5 — Columbus today has a department of civil defense.

The department was created officially last night by action of the city council.

The department is to be headed by a dollar-a-year director. With a staff of five, the director will be a parttime leader but with authority similar to other city department heads.

The staff will include a $5,088-a-year executive administrator; two administrative assistants at $3,900 a year and a clerk and a stenographer.

The council appropriated $5,000 for the department for the rest of the year.

The nine-member executive committee will meet Friday to consider some 30 persons recommended for the top post of director. The mayor, with council's consent, will make the appointment. The staff will be selected in the same manner.

Ballot Ruling To Be Tested

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5—A Lakewood woman will test the ruling of Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy that illiterates may receive help in marking their ballots.

Mrs. Veva G. Sumergrade late yesterday filed a suit in the state supreme court asking a writ of prohibition to invalidate the ruling. The case was set for hearing Saturday.

Duffy's ruling to Secretary of State Charles F. Sweeney held that election officials may assist illiterate persons in marking their ballots.

Oil Blaze Dope Ordered Bought For Firemen

Circleville's fire department soon is to be equipped with a unit with which to combat gasoline, oil and tar fires.

"Of course, it won't be big enough to handle a fire like we had several years ago," said the chief, referring to a huge blaze at the Circleville Oil Co. bulk plant, "but it will be sufficient for our needs."

The chief said the apparatus sprays out a soapy substance over a gasoline or oil blaze which smothers the flames.

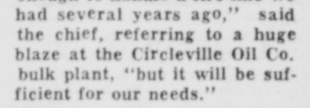

He said the money appropriated by council will buy the equipment and 35 gallons of fluid.

Lasso Used To Save Boy

BATAVIA, Oct. 5—James Walden of Covington, Ky., was credited today with saving the life of a fellow-worker with a lasso.

Walden threw the rope down into a 20-foot well and dropped it over Ralph Rice, 18, also of Covington, who had been overcome by lack of oxygen. He pulled the boy to the surface and revived him.

Women Oppose Liquor Clinics

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5 — A delegate to the Columbus conference of Ohio church women has called for defeat of a proposed bill in the Ohio General Assembly to establish clinics for alcoholics.

Mrs. Harld Brown of Chillicothe urged the group to adopt a resolution against the proposal to spend $30,000 on each of 70 clinics for alcoholics. She declared:

"Why should you and I be taxed to pay this initial cost of $2.5 million in taxes to take care of the victims of liquor traffic? Why shouldn't the traffic pay for them?"

CANCEROUS SORE

WARNING the American people that inflation is not around the corner but is here, right now, Thomas B. McCabe, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, believes it will require all the resources of the nation to eradicate this "cancerous sore."

Commercial bank loans have increased $2,500,000,000 since the war in Korea started. Consumer credits have increased $10,000,000,000 in the last year. Why shouldn't people borrow? So long as inflation continues, they will pay the loan in money that is cheaper than that they borrowed.

Wild spending is the custom of the hour. In this the people are merely following the example of their government. The government continues to borrow from the banks and the banks convert the government's paper into new credit. That is particularly vicious at a time when the government is about to step in and requisition for military purposes production that otherwise would be devoted to the output of civilian goods.

People with pockets crammed full of cheap money will bid up the price of scarce goods. Experience in the last war proved that any controls the government can devise will be ineffective.

McCabe says the government ought to levy taxes high enough to pay current government costs. This step would reduce the present over-supply of money that can be spent for consumer goods. This theory, expounded frequently of late, is based on the rankest fallacy. When taxes go up, prices and wages go up to pay the increased taxes, and inflation is given a new boost.

But the "cancerous sore" is here. Unless it is removed, the country will suffer more intense agonies.

NO GASOLINE RATIONING

THERE will be no need for gasoline rationing in the foreseeable future, according to W. S. Zehrung, president of the National Petroleum Association. Mr. Zehrung declares the oil industry is producing sufficient petroleum to meet all needs, including military, and still maintain the highest oil reserves in history.

During the last war the oil industry increased its production to 5,000,000 barrels of crude oil a day. Production now ranges between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 barrels daily, according to seasonal demands.

With the nation geared to motor car travel, rationing of the necessary fuel would impose a real hardship upon the country's economy and the American way of life. It is unlikely there would be a shortage of food regardless of the length of another war. With plenty of fuel, civilian life would go on much the same as usual.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

To repeat: It is impossible to correct an historic mistake except by war. The Ford Foundation apparently intends to use its money in the ages-old search for a substitute for war, but it is likely to produce nothing more serious, in these times, than learned monographs by erudite and imaginative professors. And the reason is not that war is a satisfactory instrument but rather that too many mistakes have been made which cannot otherwise be corrected, except in a static world.

No one would have imagined at any time, until it actually happened, that Korea, of all countries, would build an army and risk a war with the United States. And of course, the unimaginable did not happen: Korea never went to war by an act of the Korean people. Soviet Russia, utilizing a native force of her own creation in Korea, crossed the 38th Parallel and risked battle.

Realistically, Russia should have been held accountable for a breach of treaty when it rejected the concept of a united Korea, but this was not done. Instead, a line drawn only for the purpose of handling Japanese prisoners of war in that country was perpetuated into two political spheres of influence.

This was an historical error that had to be corrected, as it could not be continued indefinitely. Therefore, one side or the other would sooner or later cross the line. When both the United States and the United Nations showed a disinclination to unify Korea, Soviet Russia, pursuing an imperialistic program on a 7,000-mile front, moved with a force that had been 30 years in the making, its organization having been planned at the Baku conference in 1920.

Now the tables having been turned by the military victory of General Douglas MacArthur, the line has been crossed again, this time by the South Koreans.

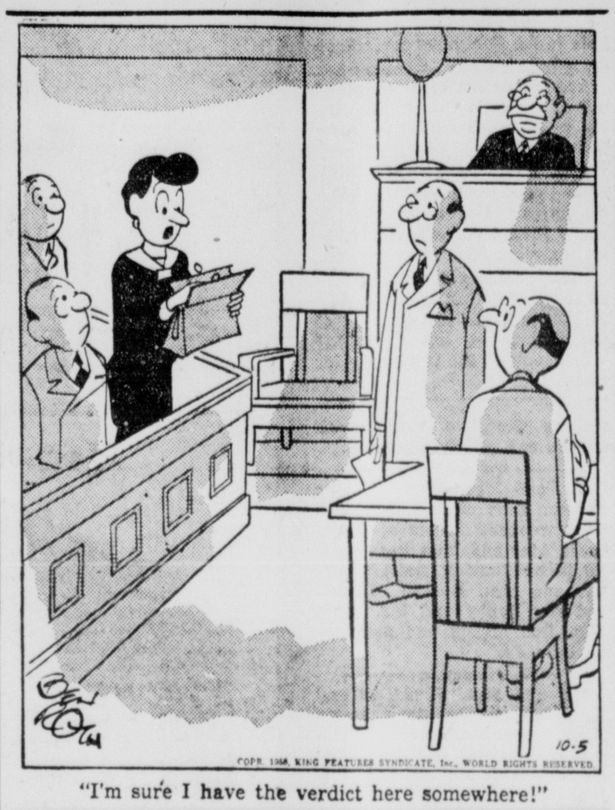

And that may lead to war with either Soviet China or Soviet Russia, which is the same thing. At stake is not Korea or the 38th Parallel. At stake is the authority of the United Nations, the United States and Soviet Russia. The conflict is over the issue of empire. Shall the conquest of Asia by Soviet Russia be arrested, under the authority of the United Nations, but by the armed forces of the United States, or, shall Soviet Russia establish the principles that any country conquered or absorbed or enslaved to the empire shall never be influenced, affected or molested by any power on earth?

The very continuance of the Soviet empire depends upon the ability of Soviet Russia to prevent the unification of Korea by the United Nations. From the Russian standpoint, such unification should be achieved by Soviet Russia in her own way, in accordance with the Soviet pattern. The crossing of the line by the South Koreans is a challenge to the Soviet theory of empire.

The attitude of Soviet China does not seem in doubt. It is a member of the Federation of Soviet Republics. True, Chou En-lai, its foreign minister, has been flirting with Great Britain and the American State Department, but this is a meaningless play for time and advantage. In fact, the United Nations invited Soviet China to appear before it on Nov. 15, but time is running out, and Soviet China cannot afford that Mac-

DIET AND HEALTH

A Serious Lung Disorder

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MODERN advances in surgery now make possible the surgical treatment of a very distressing disorder which has previously resulted in much chronic invalidism.

Known as bronchiectasis this disease gradually destroys large areas of lung tissue. The tubes of the lungs become dilated and filled with a foul-smelling discharge. There is much coughing, occasional attacks of fever, and generalized weakness.

Correct Deformity

No medical treatment will correct the deformities of the bronchial tube though antibiotics, such as penicillin, may be used to control the infection which so often complicates this disease. Since these patients lead such a miserable life and are so likely to end up as invalids, early surgical treatment to remove the affected lung tissue is suggested.

Most of these patients are in poor general health, so that proper care before operation is needed. Their nutrition must be improved and injections of whole blood into a vein are often necessary to overcome anemia or lessening of the coloring of the blood. Any vitamin deficiencies must be corrected, particularly vitamin C.

Seven Days

For from four to seven days before operation, the patient is given penicillin both by injection into a muscle and by breathing it into the lungs. The patient is also taught how to carry out postural drainage. He lies over the bed with his head lower than the feet so that the secretions in the lungs may drain out.

X-ray examination, as well as examination of the lungs through a bronchoscope is necessary to determine the exact location and extent of the bronchiectasis. A bronchoscope is a tube and a light which can be passed into the lung so that the physician can look directly at the tissue.

Rid of Injection

Before surgery, it is also important to get rid of any infections in the nose, mouth, and sinuses. After operation, the pleural or chest cavity is flooded with a solution of penicillin and streptomycin. The patient is again examined with a bronchoscope and X-rays are taken to be sure that the lung left in place has re-expanded. At regular intervals, the secretions are sucked out of the windpipe and bronchial tubes. Every three hours, for from five to seven days, injections of penicillin and streptomycin into a muscle are employed.

Patients who are developing bronchiectasis should, of course, be under the care of a physician who will decide when surgical measures are required.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. S.: Is inhaling beechwood creosote healing to the lungs?

Answer: I know of no evidence that this substance has any value in lung disorders.

Perry Kimbro, R.N.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

PERRY sat so still after Dr. Grinstead warned her to protect Philip from poisoning that for a moment he looked uneasy, afraid that she was going to faint. Then before she could pull herself together to thank him and get away, there was a knock at the door and Dr. McKenzie thrust his head in.

"Hi, Grinny. They told me in the clinic you wanted me to drop in when I'd finished." Then he saw Perry and stopped, came in and closed the door. His first flash of —could it possibly have been pleasure?—vanished as he greeted her and turned back questioningly to Dr. Grinstead.

"Sit down, Jay," said Dr. Grinstead hospitably. "I knew you would be interested in the analysis, and I thought perhaps you'd be here about the same time as Miss Kimbro."

"Analysis?" Dr. McKenzie looked sharply at Perry and then at Dr. Grinstead as he dropped into a chair and drew out his pipe.

"Afraid we're afoul of Miss Mehitty again, Jay," said Dr. Grinstead dryly.

"Good. If we've got something we can hang on the old witch, so we can trim her claws—" began Dr. McKenzie.

Dr. Grinstead shook his head.

"Just another dose of that 'Magic Elixir' stuff she peddles around," he answered. "That's all we found in the pudding that had no right to be there."

Puzzled, Dr. McKenzie frowned as he studied Dr. Grinstead.

"I hate to seem unreasonably stupid, fella, but what the heck are you yammering about? Analysis of what pudding?" he demanded.

Dr. Grinstead shot a startled glance at Perry's white face and then back at Dr. McKenzie.

"Sorry, Jay. I thought, of course, that Miss Kimbro came here at your suggestion," he explained awkwardly. "Suppose you tell him, Miss Kimbro."

Dr. McKenzie looked at Perry hard. There was cold anger in his eyes, and his jaw was set and hard.

"Yes, Miss Kimbro, by all means, suppose you do." His voice stung and her face reddened as though the sting had been physical.

She explained about the pudding which Sanna had made with her own hands and brought to Philip, and which she had wanted to feed him with her own hands; and about Philip's insistence that the pudding be analyzed for any dangerous element.

Dr. McKenzie listened without a word, his jaw setting harder, his eyes more and more hostile, and when she had finished, he said bitingly, "I see. And apparently it did not occur to you, Miss Kimbro, that as Philip's physician, in charge of the case, I should have been informed—if it was too much to expect that you would consult with me—before taking such action?"

Perry's head went up. But of course he was right. She had had no right whatever to come here to the lab without first consulting Dr. McKenzie. And it should have been Dr. McKenzie, not the nurse, who asked for the analysis.

"I meant to tell you," she told him unsteadily. "But I didn't know how to get in touch with you. And Mr. Ellender was upset and insistent that I lose no time. And then when I was returning to Pinelands—perhaps you remember what happened then?"

Some of the hostility melted from his eyes and she saw that he was remembering. For a dazzling, breathless moment she felt once more the pressure of his arms about her, his anxious voice in her ears calling her "darling;" all the exciting, exquisite wonder of that enchanted interval when old Miss Mehitty had chased her straight into the paradise of Jay McKenzie's arms.

"Yes," said Dr. McKenzie softly. "I remember very well."

Perry drew a hard breath. "Well, things happened so fast there wasn't a chance to tell you anything, for Sanna came along then, and she was in a hurry."

Dr. McKenzie nodded slowly beneath the impact of that.

"Of course. She was hurrying to catch up with Miss Mehitty. That's why Miss Mehitty was in the woods. There are not enough of her herbs growing there to justify her gathering them. I sensed there was something odd about her being there, but I couldn't quite fit it in." His words came slowly, for he was obviously fitting the patches together in his mind as he spoke, and the picture was coming clear. "So Sanna had a date with Miss Mehitty—maybe for more of the 'Magic Elixir,' poor little devil!"

The last words came so softly that for a moment Perry could not be quite sure that she heard them. And when she was sure, she blinked a little and felt as though a tiny ray of light had penetrated a dark room. For does a man wildly in love with a woman speak of her in a tone of pity as "poor little devil"? But before her silly heart could grasp a faint shred of hope from the thought, she thrust it away from her. She had seen Sanna held close in Jay's arms, weeping her heart out. Jay had fought her battles so furiously that there was a great deal of gossip around the mountain about it. He was in love with Sanna; he had to be. It was the only possible explanation. Relentlessly she pushed shut the door in her heart that had permitted, for just an instant, one tiny thread of hope.

"Definitely, something is going to have to be done about Miss Mehitty," he said firmly.

Dr. Grinstead smiled at him in open derision.

"Such as what, for instance? You know darned well, Jay, that if the law laid so much as a finger on her, the mountains would rise up to a man, and there'd be such a to-do as never was! They worship her," he protested.

"They are scared to death of her!"

"Maybe. But just the same, who is it they send for when there's sickness in the family? When Bud Pickens was gored by his prize Jersey bull, who was there giving him treatment when the ambulance arrived? And who got the credit for saving his life? Believe me, it wasn't anybody connected with Ellender Memorial!" Dr. Grinstead reminded him. "And you know as well as I do how many others can tell similar stories."

"Soot, cobwebs and a weird yellow powder applied by Miss Mehitty are supposed to have saved Bud. But you and I know darned well, Grinny, what really pulled him through, and it happened right here with practically the whole darned staff on 24-hour duty for four solid days."

Dr. Grinstead nodded, grinning.

"Sure, you and I know that. But will anybody outside the hospital admit it? Nope, it's Miss Mehitty that did it, and until you catch her really administering some fatal dose to somebody, you're sunk! So leave us face it, pal."

Dr. McKenzie was silent for a moment, and then he said grimly, almost savagely, "Well, when that day dawns, it won't be Sanna Ellender who administers the fatal dose to her husband, I'll stake my life on that."

Dr. Grinstead said quietly, "I want to believe that, Jay."

"You may," snapped Dr. McKenzie, and rose. "Well, I've got to get old Danny Parker's daily dose of insulin into him, and I've got to step on it."

He nodded to Dr. Grinstead, to Perry, and walked out. And for a moment after he had gone it seemed to Perry that the room was unbearably cold and bleak and empty.

Dr. Grinstead watched her, and after a moment he said levelly: "Don't you think, Miss Kimbro, that it would be wiser of you to work in closer cooperation with the physician in charge of your case? Aren't you overstepping your authority a bit? You could easily get both of us into a bit of a jam, going over Jay's head as you have in this matter."

Perry accepted the rebuke humbly, thanked him for his service, and escaped.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—When Lois Schenck came to New York four years ago from Narberth, Pa., her credentials were exactly the same as those of five hundred other girls. She was young and pretty and blond. She had $40 in her pocket, she had amateur and semi-pro theatrical experience and with her parents' approval and help, she was, in her words, going to take the city by storm. The situation is old and familiar.

Where the other five hundred might have lasted a couple of years at most and then gone back to the home town to marry the butcher's son, Lois today is a success. She is not yet a success as an actress, it is true, although she is climbing closer and closer by slow degrees—but she is successful as president of Shoeshine Girls, Inc.

There are 25 Shoeshine Girls in New York right now. They are just what the name sounds like—shoeshine girls. But theirs is an esoteric working world. They turn up at conventions, service-club luncheons, restaurants and hotels, each carrying her shine kit and wearing her special costume of black and red checked shorts and sleeveless white Peter Pan blouse trimmed with the black and red check.

They work under different salary arrangements wherever they go, but when they handle big luncheon clubs like the Circus Saints and Sinners, their tips run from $1 to $10 a man. In the words of Lois Schenck: it's wonderful.

"When I came to New York, it was five months before I got my first job, a bit in Bert Lahr's Burlesque," Lois told me today. "I worked as an usher at the Art theater down in the Village, and then I used to fill in as cashier, secretary and clean-up woman.

"I remember that several times I was down on my knees, scrubbing, when people like Ingrid Bergman and Dana Andrews came by. And me a potential actress! I almost died."

APPARENTLY LOIS ALWAYS THOUGHT that pretty girls could make something out of the shoeshine business. After months of receiving "that little thing in the mail"—that would be unemployment insurance—she turned up one day in Times Square with a shoeshine kit.

"It was 12 noon," she said. "I was shaking like a leaf. At first nobody took me seriously. They thought it was an election bet or a sorority initiation.

"Then my dentist, Dr. Irwin Abel, happened along, and asked me what I was doing. I told him and he just patted me on the head and said 'Good luck.' After that, passersby knew I was authentic—and business began."

She made $11 that first day. Then she went at it every day for three months, except Sundays. She was living with a couple of other young business girls and they used to tuck her into bed at night, she was so tired.

"But I loved it," she said, "and I still do. You get to meet so many people and talk about so many things. I don't shine shoes in the street any more, but I still go out with the girls and I shine pretty nearly everywhere else. And I'm a good shoeshiner."

Finally she got six other girls together and formed what she called the Gingham Girls' Shoeshine Group, and then the rise went on rapidly. At present they have an office and Miss Schenck is eating so high on the hog these evenings that last month alone she gained eight pounds. It is carefully and evenly distributed.

THE TWO DOZEN GIRLS WHO WORK FOR LOIS all are in show business or the modeling racket, and they do their shoeshining between jobs. They can clear $30 or $40 a week, and they like it much better than clerking in stores or waiting on tables, because (1) it's different, and (2) they get a lot of publicity.

Just last month Lois was appearing in a bit part in The Madwoman of Chaillot touring company, playing what they call the subway circuit in Brooklyn, and shining shoes by day.

Her girls have included Peggy Nelson, who took over Joan Lorring's role in Come Back, Little Sheba just before it closed, and Serena Sande, who starred in a Florida-made movie that has yet to be released.

Lois now lives alone near the American Museum of Art and she observes all the rules that her girls do on the job. They sign contracts not to smoke, drink or date while working.

The big money, Lois feels, may lie in getting hooked up with a shoe company or a polish-manufacturing firm. Meanwhile, she grins as she remembers what Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman once told her when she was shining Kaufman's shoes on Broadway, a couple of years ago. "You should make something out of this," they said to her, enthusiastically.

"I was 'way ahead of them," she says.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Sawyer waited so long to name his first-game starting pitcher, Moscow cabled the Voice Of America: "How about your Iron Curtain in Philadelphia?"

But we have named Eddie Sawyer "the man most likely" and will complete the sentence before midnight, Oct. 7.

The only seat we could get today was so far from home plate you could feel the ocean spray on the salt water taffy. That brought us back to New York quicker than a vanished policeman.

For the remainder of the Series, we are sharing a 10-inch television set with nine other men. Our inch is in leftfield and cloudy. We miss some of the thrills of personal attendance but our set has double images and who else can see two complete games at one time?

Try, Stop Me

That brought up the Yankee third baseman, Jumping Joe Dugan. On the first pitch, he shortened his bat, laid down a perfect bunt, and beat the throw to first with plenty to spare. Manager Miller Huggins came steaming out of the dugout and bellowed, "I ought to fine you a hundred bucks for breaking up a rally."

Brian Donlevy still gets laughs with his story of the Aberdeen brothers who learned their old father was seriously ill in London, and dispatched the eldest son to look after him. "Wire us when you've seen him," said the other two, "and remember you can send ten words for a shilling." That night they received the following wire: "Arrived safely. Father dead. Funeral Tuesday. Rangers two, Celtics one."

The word pretzel is said to mean "little arms." Pretzels, according to the story, were originally given to children by their religious instructors as a reward for learning their prayers; the pretzel design represents folded arms.

400 Entries Are Expected

Pumpkin Show Baked Goods Department will be well housed this year—in the armory on East Franklin street.

According to Mrs. Willison Leist, director, every precaution will be taken to safeguard exhibits.

There will be the prizes awarded for the largest pumpkin pie and for the best decorated pumpkin pie. Winners will receive a $5 cash award in each class.

There will be prizes for the best plate of pumpkin cookies and the best pumpkin cake. Pumpkin cookie winners will receive awards of $1 for first place; 75 cents for second place. Winners in the pumpkin cake class will receive a first prize of $2 and a second prize $1.50.

Most coveted prize perhaps in the whole show is the prize going to the exhibitor having the most entries in the Baked Goods Department.

Mrs. Leist has announced that this prize goes to the winner who brings the most baked goods entries.

The 1949 Pumpkin Show Baked Goods Department had a total of 390 entries. Mrs. Leist and her committee are expecting more entries this year and are preparing space for them. More than 400 entries are probable.

Assisting the director will be Mrs. Glen Hines, Mrs. Rolla Murlette, Mrs. Paul Campbell and Mrs. Edward Blum.

The three judges already procured will be out-of-county personnel provided by Ohio Fuel Gas. Co. and the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

In the cake exhibit will be 16 classes ranging from the pumpkin cake through chocolate layer cakes, nut cakes, spice cakes, sponge cakes, white and yellow layer cakes, angel food caes, devil cakes, best decorated cake and best novelty cake to best fruit cake.

The cookie division, which include cup cakes, will have 11 classifications.

This department will also have two classes for butter; two classes for eggs; a bread and roll section, candy with ten divisions and a canned goods section.

Dawson-Nolty Marriage Set

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dawson of 506 East Mound street have announced the approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Ruth, to Charles A. Nolty, son of Ben L. Nolty of 1936 Sale Road of Columbus.

The wedding will take place Oct. 29.

Child Culture League Plans Entry In Show

At a meeting held in the home of Mrs. Lloyd Minor, two committees were named—one to select the child, the other to choose her clothing. On the first Mrs. James Morrison and Mrs. Charles Hart will serve. Making up the second committee will be Mrs. Mary Ellen Sarringhaus, Mrs. Emmett Evans and Mrs. George Neff.

As principal speaker of the evening, Mrs. George Neff outlined the symptoms, treatment and complication of five common childhood diseases.

Berger Guild 6 Reviews Work Done By Group

A review of achievements highlighted the informal discussion when Berger Hospital Guild 6 was entertained in the home of Mrs. Ray Pierce with Mrs. Louis Mebs, vice-president conducting the session.

One of the facts brought out in the discussion was that Guild 6 had held a meeting each month, Summer months included, since its organization early in the year. It's project was the adoption of a room.

Money-making projects included regular dues, sale of a gift donated each meeting by a member and a rummage sale.

Guild 6 has provided its adopted room with new drapes and a new bed spread. A linen-purchasing-committee had on display new linens recently bought for the room. Mrs. Pierce was assisted by Mrs. Frank Hinkle and Miss Elizabeth Hilyard when she purchased the linens.

Mrs. Gibb Starkey has donated laundry service for any of the gifts purchased by Guild 6 for the room.

As a new project, the guild will provide a plastic covered chair. Guild President Mrs. Guy Campbell will donate table service which will be presented in the name of the guild.

Members voted to bring a toy for the hospital to the next meeting which will be held in Mrs. Starkey's home.

Idle Claim List Here On Increase

Local BUC Office Makes Report

According to a report from the state Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, both new and continued claims showed an increase.

New claims jumped from nine for the week before last to 14 last week, while continued claims climbed from 41 to 53.

Throughout the state, however, the BUC report showed both new and continued claims dropping. New claims the week before last totaled 4,918, dropping last week to 4,656.

Continued claims declined from 33,993 the week before last to last week's 31,779.

Meanwhile—employers throughout the state are being urged to hire handicapped workers on the basis of their abilities in at least 53 Ohio cities where campaigns now are observing this week as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week.

* * *

THE NEPH WEEK campaign in Ohio brings to a climax the year around efforts of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation and state and federal rehabilitation agencies to place qualified handicapped workers in jobs in which they are able to use their skills to the best advantage.

The 7,479 handicapped workers currently seeking jobs, according to C. C. Thomas, Local BUC manager, includes applicants who are qualified by training or experience for almost all types of skilled and semi-skilled work.

Surveys have shown, Thomas said, that when properly placed, handicapped workers have as good or better records than the non-handicapped in production, labor turnover and low absenteeism rates.

Half Of Farmers Now Using Co-Op Memberships

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 — The Farm Credit Administration says that memberships in farmer cooperatives are continuing their skyward climb.

The FCA reports that during the 1948-49 marketing season memberships in cooperatives increased a half million above the year before. That increase is about the same registered in the previous three years.

Farmer cooperatives now have more than six million, 384,000 members.

These preliminary estimates are expected to be cut down somewhat when the final surveys are in, the FCA says, because some farmers belong to more than one cooperative.

Still, the FCA points out, more than half of the nation's farmers now use the services of cooperatives to market their products or buy their supplies.

The 10 thousand farmer cooperatives in a government survey did business estimated at almost $7.5 billion by marketing what farmers produce and more than $2 billion by purchasing supplies.

Home-Ownership Ad Drive Set By Realtors

TOLEDO, Oct. 5—A national advertising campaign to sell to America the advantages of home ownership was described here yesterday before the 700 Ohio realtors in their third and final day of the 41st annual convention of the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards.

"A vigorous home-ownership campaign comprehends far more than an immediate effort to sell real estate," said Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice-president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. "It would be our affirmative action to top the choking control of housing in Washington.

"It makes citizens partners in America as nothing else does," he continued. "It is our best hope to check socialism and with it the hurrying encroachments that surely promise the extinction of private business, including our own real estate business."

Also recommended by Nelson was the formation of a home owners council to furnish information on home ownership as a cooperative service by realtors, home builders, materials manufacturers, lumber dealers, and mortgage loan banks and associations.

Nina Buskirk Gets Divorce; Settlement OKd

The couple was married March 26, 1919, in Circleville. They have one child, an adult. Judge William D. Radcliff found the husband guilty of gross neglect of duty.

A separation agreement gives the wife a residence on Elm avenue, household goods and furniture and one half of cash and bonds possessed by the couple.

Truman's Letter Brings $2,500

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 — President Truman's letter dubbing the Marine Corps as "the Navy's police force" with a "propaganda machine" comparable to Stalin's has been purchased by a Chicago insurance executive for $2,500.

Rep. Gordon McDonough, (R) Cal., recipient of the highly-controversial letter, announced last night that Harry Frasier, 52, bought the letter because he believes it to be an historic document. McDonough said the money has been donated to the Marine Corps League for the benefit of disabled Marine veterans.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

OHIOANS PLENTY PEEVED

Weatherman Hiding After Menu Of Chills, Drizzles

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5—Whatever the weatherman has in his bag of tricks for the rest of this year it will be no surprise to Ohioans.

But, for his own safety, he had better watch his step. After a chilly, soggy Summer, Ohioans are plenty peeved.

Despite the weatherman's tempo of cold Summer nights and too much rain at the wrong times, he has at least one friend —T. J. Pierce, official in charge of the weather bureau in Columbus.

Pierce came to the weatherman's defense by placing part of the blame on Ohioans who were responsible for setting the dates of outdoor events which were either washed out or at least faded out a little by rain.

* * *

THE COLUMBUS weather official guiltily admitted that the Summer nights were "just too cold" for the season but he said the amount of rain "was definitely not unusual."

However, it was rain and not the cold nights that played hops with the Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta June 17 at Marietta.

Two top link cards in Columbus, the Professional Golfers' Association tourney June 21-27 and the National Caddie Tournament, Aug. 23-25 also were dampened down. The Fourth of July holiday was a bust because of rains.

There were three rainy periods in September. The first of these came during the Ohio State Centennial Fair Aug. 27-Sept. 2.

The second landed in the middle of the National Plowing Matches at Urbana on Sept. 14 and the third caused a two-day postponement of the Little Brown Jug harness racing classic Sept. 21 at Delaware.

Pierce, still holding to his records that show no unusual amount of precipitation during the Summer, said the only exception was the 2.93-inch rain on June 16 in the Marietta area.

It was the same rain that caused flashfloods in the Muskingum river area. The flood waters swirled into the Ohio river and stirred it up so much debris that the regatta course had to be altered.

* * *

BUT FOR THE other events, Pierce contended that the planners "should have been zigging instead of zagging." He said by moving the dates of the outdoors activities "a week or so either way," the patches of rainy weather could have been averted.

Believing his explanation of the inopportune rains was enough to exonerate Mr. Weatherman, Pierce did not try to excuse him for the cold nights—those with temperatures below 60 degrees. He said the highest reading of the whole Summer in Columbus was a 94-degree day in August.

He said that during last June there were 14 below-par nights as compared with four in 1949.

July had five chillers but there were none in July, 1949. There were 13 cold nights this August but only five last year. In September, there were 15 frigid evenings but there were just nine in 1949.

The averages took big drops too. Pierce said June was 2.8 degrees below the normal average, July, 3.2 degrees below; August, 3.4 degrees too low and September, .7 degrees.

Compared with last year's temperatures, June was 7.6 degrees lower, July, 7.1; August, 1.1, and September 3.2.

Cloudiness, Pierce said, was a little more than usual this Summer, but "not worth worrying about."

HEAVY CRITICISM EXPECTED

Truman Has Difficulty Finding Defense Chiefs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—Administration sources say that the approach of victory in Korea has made it extremely difficult for President Truman to find men to fill a number of key defense posts.

They said this is one of the factors behind recent statements by the President, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and others warning the country against any let-down in the defense program.

The administration reportedly has received several turn-downs in its attempt to hire a director of economic stabilization, a price control chief, a chairman of the Wage Control Board and other important officials to handle the nation's anti-inflation program.

Recruiting efforts are understood to be in charge of W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board and the government's top defense mobilizer, and Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman.

* * *

SECRETARY OF Labor Maurice J. Tobin a few days ago indicated the difficulty the government is having in getting competent officials.

Tobin issued an order setting up a defense manpower office in the Labor Department but appointed no one to head it. His aides hinted that it may be some time before the job can be filled.

Cyrus S. Ching, 73-year-old director of the Federal Mediation Service, has been asked to head the Wage Control Board, but is reluctant to accept the post. Ching feels he can render more valuable service in trying to avert defense plant strikes.

Administration insiders say one reason private citizens are reluctant to come to Washington is that they know the stabilization program will undergo a stormy beginning when the persons in charge probably will be subjected to heavy criticism.

In addition to the defense jobs, the President also has to find five men to make up the Subversive Activities Control Board and administer the Communist-control program recently enacted by Congress over his veto.

These are said to be among the toughest posts for the White House to fill. There have been reports that Seth Richardson, who has headed the government's loyalty review program for some time, may be named chairman of the new Communist-control board.

Volume, Prices Drop At Local Livestock Sale

Cattle receipts declined from last week's 288 head to the Wednesday's sale of 210. Hog receipts, however, climbed to 700 from last week's sale of 650.

Calf receipts and sheep and lamb sales dropped off sharply. Calf volume was down to 54 head from last week's sale of 80 head, while sheep and lamb receipts skidded to 425 Wednesday from last week's marketing of 611 head.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreicher
INS Foreign Director

A proposal for ending the savage conflict in Korea that might well be compared with any such untenable idea that American troops should have ended their efforts in the second European war on Normandy beachheads was studied by an astonished world today.

It is reported to be the brainchild of Chou En-lai, an old-line Oriental statesman versed in the arts of diplomacy.

Chou has been a commanding figure in the Korean war since its inception with Communist aggression across the 38th Parallel about three months ago.

From his exotically-decorated offices in what years ago was the United States embassy building not far from the old imperial palaces in Peiping, he has directed both the policies of Communist China and those of Red-controlled North Korea.

Chou has indicated that the North Koreans — subsidized by world Communism and hurled into a war of aggression that has backfired completely — are ready to "sue for peace."

On the basis of latest dispatches from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo and from front-line correspondents at Seoul and the rapidly diminishing Communist belt between the capital and the 38th Parallel to the north, Chou's suggestion seems to be an understatement almost classic in style.

• • •

THE WAR NEWS—from the Communist point of view — was so bad from all angles as to place the North Korean peace bid almost in the "incredible" category.

Chou was presented as indicating Communist willingness now to accept the United Nations cease fire order that was spurned not only with contempt but with blazing artillery fire on a Sunday last June.

His "offer" was said to provide for withdrawal of Communist troops which have killed and wounded thousands of Americans to points north of the 38th Parallel. This, of course, completely overlooks the recorded fact that these Red soldiers are scurrying for that questionable line of cover as soon as they can get there.

And finally, except for a hint of "free elections" such as have been promised but never carried out in any Soviet satellite nation anywhere in Europe or the world, is the suggestion that United States forces go back to Pusan at Korea's southeastern tip on the sea of Japan.

In view of United Nations determination to bring an end to the Korean conflict and in so doing to liquidate any haunting Soviet thoughts of new agression, Chou's offer will be accorded at least the diplomatic niceties.

This is one phase of the day and age that MacArthur can pass along, with or without comment, to the sage representatives of world nations gathered at Flushing Meadow.

What the United Nations will do, as representatives of an outraged peace, is yet to be decided.

• • •

THERE ARE diplomats at its council tables who know Chou from far back. As a Chinese Communist leader in the then Red capital of Yenan during the Sino-Japanese war he lived in a cave. When Red forces surged into power his home became a mansion in the shadow of the golden forbidden city at Peiping.

And these diplomats recall that his secretary caught him up more than once in an instantaneous correction of some translation despite his protests that he knew no tongue but his native Chinese. Chou's approach may be sincere, well-meant and constructive, but it faces a merciless scrutiny in days to come.

Louisiana Man Files $8,736 Law Suit Here

A damage suit for $8,736.35 has been started in Pickaway County common pleas court by Jesse O. Willett of Ouachita Parish, La., against the Illinois Yeast Co.

The suit grew out of the collision of two tractor-trailers on Aug. 11, 1949. The accident took place at night on Route 22 about one mile west of Williamsport.

Willett states he was driving east and his truck crashed into the defendant's trailer. He claims the defendant was negligent in placing his truck across the highway, allowing it to remain there, failing to have proper lights on the sides of the trailer, giving no warning of the position of the trailer, failing to dim his headlights and failing to plant flares.

Better Buy Buick!

PERHAPS you've noticed that there seem to be a lot of these brawny beauties running around on America's highways—and it isn't just that boldly gleaming forefront that spreads this impression.

It isn't just the fact that folks who own a Buick get such a bang out of it that they do a lot of driving.

Back of all this is another fact. It's a fact that contains a broad hint to anyone who'd like to know what's what in motorcar buys. 1950 Buicks are breaking all past popularity records, as registered in sales.

So we suggest that you do some personal investigating.

Find out, for example, how masterful you feel, with Fireball power purring away the miles, at a polite touch of your toe on the gas treadle.

Find out how the jolts and jars seem to disappear, when you have big soft coil springs on all four wheels, and fat low-pressure tires on wide Safety-Ride rims.

Then there's Dynaflow Drive,* which Buick owners vote the biggest automotive hit that has come along in years.

With all this, there's room, and comfort, and road-hugging heft combined with a light and willing response to your hand on the wheel—and prices that start down with the sixes.

Seems like almost everyone wants to own one of these Buicks—and most people can. How about you? Isn't it a smart idea to see your Buick dealer now and get your name on his list?

YOUR KEY TO GREATER VALUE

Only BUICK has Dynaflow— and with it goes: HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD forefront, taper-through fenders • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube.

With world attention centered on the Orient, and especially on China and its behavior under Communist masters, it is well for us to know what's going on behind the scenes in this area so important to the future of Asia and, indeed, the whole world.

I've just had as my guest a Chinese business man who has spent his lifetime in China, who has had personal contact with the Chinese Communists and has observed at first hand the turn of events since they occupied the country.

He is a university graduate, a highly intelligent, unusually well-informed person; in fact, he was with American Intelligence in China during World War II.

Any war today involving the United States against world Communism would find the masses of the Chinese people "ready and anxious to revolt" against their Communist masters, he says. "But if the Communists are given 10 years in China," he says, "they will have indoctrinated our young people so thoroughly and enslaved the others so completely that any spirit of revolt remaining alive will have been rendered impotent."

This is a significant opinion in view of the theory, long projected by some of our foreign policy leaders, that China "is too big for the Communists to swallow."

* * *

"NINE-TENTHS of all the people of China are against Communism now," he says. "They would revolt if they had a chance. They have discovered by personal experience that Communism permits only a bare existence, at best, if they order their lives in the Communist mold there is absolutely no hope or promise of rising above the existence level. Though there have been severe obstacles through the centuries, my people have always been conscious of the opportunity, however difficult, for anyone to rise above the station of peasantry. The opportunity now is closed."

The communists turn a benign face to the Chinese people, he says. "But their unspoken threats loom terrible behind their politeness. To oppose or even to question their "suggestions" means imprisonment or death, or both. All Chinese people have become aware of this fact—by observation in their communities."

The Chinese people, he says, "have found, too, that the promised Communist land reforms will not materialize.

It is true that the crushingly high rentals which many landlords had imposed for generations have ceased going to the landlords, but it is not true that Chinese peasants have been "given" land. The Communist "State" in every case has retained ownership. The peasant on his parcel of land merely has changed landlords.

"He is permitted to keep from his rice harvest only a small portion above his diet requirements and with this he must meet all of the living expenses. The remainder is taken away by the Communist government. With his allotment he must earmark a quantity to exchange for the everyday family and home necessities and conserve the rest as the chief item of the family diet. The allotment represents his whole income.

* * *

"THE SEIZING of land and other wealth goes down to the lowest level of ownership. The landlord owning five acres is approached, for instance, and told he needs only one acre. Ownership of four acres is taken from him. And the Communist officials says, 'Oh, by the way, the rental you've charged during the past has been rather high. We think you should have charged ony half as much. You will please return 50 per cent of the rentals you've collected during the past three years.' To whom? To the Communist government—not the tenant! If the owner hasn't the money and can't, in desperation, raise it, he goes to prison. He is not even permitted to make installment payments with the income from the one-acre left to him."

However, he says the "graft and corruption" attributed to the Chiang regime has been 'inflated out of all proportions" by Communist propagandists, their allies and unwitting dupes. He doubts it would even be "out of scale" with the political graft and corruption in some American cities. He says also that before Communists occupied Central and South China, land reform laws had been passed by the Chiang government which would ultimately have ended the worst features of Chinese landlordism.

Tolliver Will Is Admitted To Probate Here

The will of M. C. Tolliver has been admitted to probate in Pickaway County probate court by Judge George D. Young.

The will leaves the entire estate to the widow, May McGuire Tolliver of Ashville Route 1, for life, and gives her the right to sell as much of the principal as she thinks necessary for her support and maintenance.

At her death the estate is to go in equal shares to a son, Earl Tolliver, and a daughter, Edith T. Brown, both of Ashville Route 1.

The son and daughter have been appointed co-executors of the estate, which has been estimated at $25,000. Of the total $20,000 is in real estate and $5,000 in personal property.

Miss Frances Price is an attractive young lady with such beautiful complexion and sparkling personality that even at the mature age of three she attracts more than her share of admirers among the junior wolfs of Hot Springs National Park, Ark. She wasn't always the vibrant person she is today because, like her mother and her grandmother, she suffered a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin, and Iron.

Miss Price is a member of a HADACOL family because her mother and grandmother, Mrs. Kenneth Price, and Mrs. Myrtle Dyer who operates a progressive store in Hot Springs, also take HADACOL.

Here is what Mrs. Price, who had suffered deficiencies, said: "Our family sells and takes HADACOL. My mother, Mrs. Dyer, started taking HADACOL some time ago for indigestion. She had aches and pains of neuritis, but after the first three bottles of HADACOL she felt beter. I was so enthused about my mother's results that I started taking HADACOL as a dietary supplement. I was weak and run down and now feel fine. We were then worried about my three year old daughter. She was weak, and run down and her food did not agree with her. After taking HADACOL she is now brimful of energy. Her cheeks are rosy. Ours is a neighborhood store and many of our customers are just as enthusiastic as we are."

Wonderful for Both Old and Young!

This new HADACOL is simply wonderful for men, women and children of all ages who are sick and ailing because their systems are lacking these important Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin.

The important Vitamins and Minerals in HADACOL come to you in special liquid form so that they are quickly absorbed and assimilated in the blood stream, ready to go right to work at once. A big improvement is often noticed within a few days. HADACOL even builds up the red blood cellls (when Iron is needed) to carry these precious elements to every part of your body—to your kidneys, lungs, heart, liver.

Relieves Cause of Your Sickness from Such Deficiencies

HADACOL now makes it possible for you to relieve the cause of neuritis pains and a general run-down nervous condition when due to deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin.

There Should Be No Doubt

After reading Mrs. Price's wonderful experience with HADACOL—how can you doubt that this great product will help you if your system is lacking in Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin?

What HADACOL did for Mrs. Price, it can do for you if you're suffering neuritis aches and pains, or other troubles due to such deficiencies.

So what are you waiting for? Don't continue to suffer — don't continue to be miserable!

Don't Be Satisfied With Symptomatic Relief!

HADACOL is not a quick-acting pill which gives symptomatic relief—rather it acts to relieve the real cause of your pains and aches or a weak, nervous run-down condition due to such deficiencies. And continued use of HADACOL helps prevent such agonizing pains and such troubles from coming back. That's the kind of product you want—that's the kind you should buy and that's the kind you should start taking NOW!

HADACOL costs only $1.25 for a trial-size bottle. Large family or hospital size, $3.50. It is sold on a strict money-back guarantee. At any drugstore.

BIG POLITICIANS WONDER

Impellitteri Has Hopes Of Being Giant-Killer

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—About 1000 B. C. David took Goliath like the Marines later took Seoul, and ever since mankind has had a sneaking admiration for any nervy little guy with a slingshot.

In this instance the nervy little guy is Vincent R. Impellitteri, acting mayor of New York, whose itchy trigger finger and slingshot have induced the shakes in both the regular Republican and Democratic organizations in this metropolis.

When Impellitteri first sat down at the piano and announced his independent candidacy for the mayoralty on the experience ticket after Tammany Hall refused to give him the nomination the boys in both the Democratic and Republican back rooms laughed like crazy.

But they have been laughing out of the other side of their combined big mouth ever since Impellitteri's ten-strike a week ago in naming Thomas F. Murphy, the Alger Hiss prosecutor, as police commissioner to investigate this graft-ridden department.

* * *

SINCE THAT DAY, the odds on the acting mayor's defeat at the polls Nov. 7 have dropped like a bride's first cake. Impellitteri may not be able to pick off both Justice Ferdinand Pecora, the Democratic candidate, and Edward Corsi, Republican nominee.

But the nervy little guy is trying against the giants and he and his slingshot have given the only color to an otherwise routine municipal election.

Down in City Hall, Impellitteri, a life-long Democrat, said it was purely coincidental that both he and his police commissioner, Mr. Murphy, are at outs with Democratic Party chieftains; Murphy because he didn't get a federal judgeship after the Hiss trials and Impellitteri because the boys in the smoke-filled rooms passed him over for Supreme Court Justice Pecora after Mayor O'Dwyer resigned.

The acting mayor, who actively served so many of O'Dwyer's years in office, said he wasn't mad at nobody until after the new American envoy to Mexico, just ten days before his resignation as mayor, pounded his desk in Impellitteri's presence and swore he had no intention of resigning before he had served his full term and "fulfilled my contract with the voters."

Impellitteri, a man with a slow burn, said the burn began when he learned of O'Dwyer's resignation from a newspaper reporter.

"I don't like to be lied to," he added. "The whole smelly political deal had been signed, sealed and delivered at the time the mayor gave me his assurances he wasn't resigning."

But this latter-day David really began exercising his slingshot arm when Carmine G. Desapio, leader of Tammany Hall, offered him a judgeship on the New York supreme court, a 14-year tenure at $28,000 annually.

"Sure, the offer was tempting," the acting hizzoner said flatly.

* * *

"IT'S THE KIND of job a man dreams about. But the principle involved was more important to me than honors or financial security. After all, they only offered me the judgeship to get me out of a job they don't want me to have and into one at which they thought I'd grab."

The acting mayor believes that no matter who is elected to the mayoralty next month, Police Commissioner Murphy will continue in office.

"No one would have the nerve to fire him. Murphy is too popular with the public. It trusts him and the candidates know it."

The acting mayor, the Walter Mitty of the campaign, believes he's going to win despite the race of Goliaths he must polish off if he is to be mayor on his own. At the moment, he feels every inch a giant killer.

Reds' Ruthless Aggression Hit By Archbishop

CINCINNATI, Oct. 5—Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati contends that the current international crisis was caused by the "ruthless aggression" of Russia.

The archbishop made his first public appearance since his installation Sunday at the annual Marian Day celebration.

"Russia has flooded the world with her evil propaganda and has begun a ruthless aggression against both the spiritual and temporal welfare of mankind. The conflict between Christian Democracy and Soviet Communism today is in simple truth a decisive struggle between freedom and slavery.

"Nations of the Christian tradition cannot cooperate in deceit, cruelty, robbery and judicial murder against fellow beings, nor in blasphemy against God."

Soviet China and Soviet Russia want every European driven out of Asia. The British have lost their sense of empire. It is unimaginable that Disraeli or Canning would have failed to see through the Russian game. Can anyone imagine that even Sir Edward Grey could have failed to understand that Russia was stimulating commercial cupidity to separate Great Britain from the United States to the disadvantage of both?

The current Socialistic British government, hungry for dollars, more anxious to carry through its planned economy than to defend its national future, has played into Stalin's hand in Asia with the result that another error is in preparation:

The error of recognizing Soviet China while the war in French Indo-China is developing—a war in which Soviet China must play the leading role.

And so, we spill blood to rectify old mistakes and to make new ones. Only when the West recognizes that the mistakes of the past were mistakes, can there be a formula for peace.

COACHES CHOOSE REFEREES

Hardin Renamed To Head 1951 County Tournament

Although more than five months in the future, plans are being readied now for the 1951 Pickaway County basketball tournament.

John Hardin, superintendent of Pickaway Township school, has been reelected for his sixth term as basketball tournament manager.

Hardin, working under a strain because of the reflection of the tournament upon his position as superintendent, said he has left selection of officials for the 1951 classic in the hands of the coaches.

A list of 12 possible referees was submitted to the manager by the coaches, who voted upon their choice. Six of the officials were selected as first choice, while the remaining six were named as possible alternates.

"The six which the coaches chose for work in the tournament are Owen Sheetz, Gene Meckling, Robert Whetstone, Carlton Rayl, Jack Rhoades and John Montgomery," Hardin said.

* * *

ALTERNATES named in the event that some of the first choice selections are not available were Carl Sitterly, Paul Adams, E. J. Wilson, Jim Strausbaugh, Ray Schick and Beannie Behrens.

The coaches also agreed during the meeting to abandon the practice season restrictions which had been in force here during the last few seasons.

Formerly, schools in the county league were not permitted to begin practice until one month before the season opener. They may begin practice whenever they choose under the new setup.

This year's county basketball league season will begin Nov. 10 with Williamsport Deers invading Monroe Indians; New Holland Bulldogs visiting Scioto Buffalos; Darby Trojans travelling to the home of Pickaway Pirates; and Saltcreek Warriors invading Jackson Wildcats.

Atlanta Red Raiders and Ashville Broncos basketball teams have drawn byes for the league season opener.

In addition, the basketball mentors agreed to limit their seasons to 20 regular games.

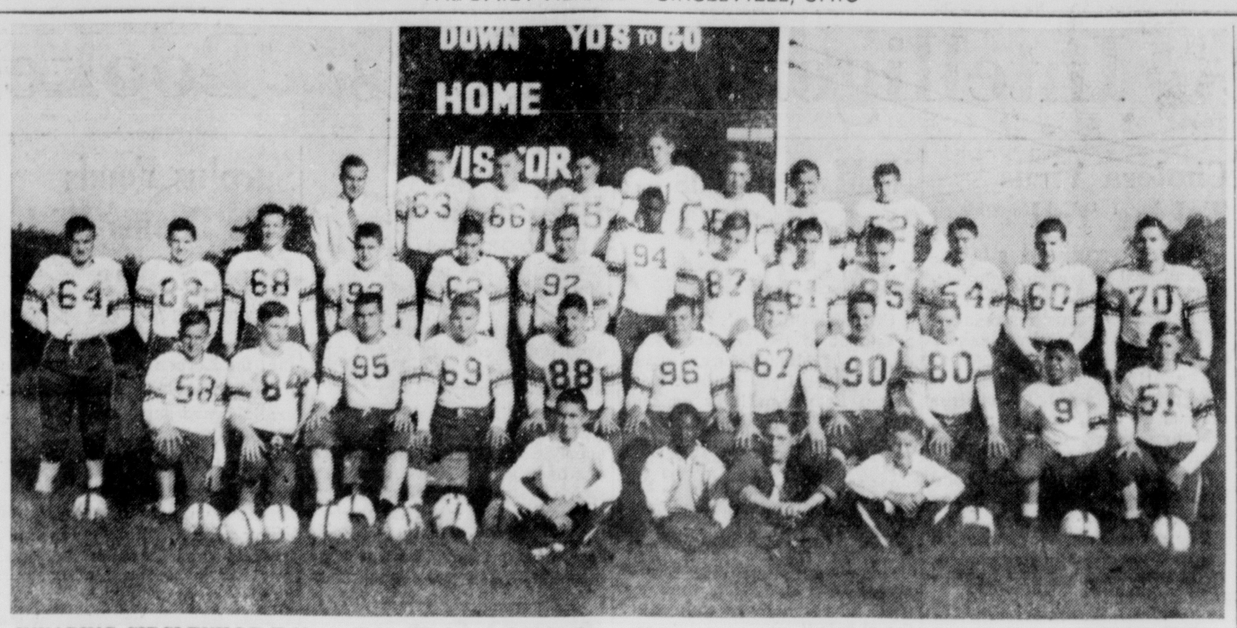

John McPherson of Darby Township school was reelected manager for the junior high basketball tournament this year, a post he has occupied during the last four years.

* * *

McPHERSON ALSO was named to head a committee to investigate new recommendations for junior high basketball as set up by the Ohio High School Athletic Association.

The coaches agreed that this year's junior contest will be governed completely by OHSAA regulations.

INVADING CIRCLEVILLE Friday will be this team of 31 husky Hillsboro Indians, fresh from winning its last two games in its three starts this season. A definite threat to Circleville's Tiger stalwarts in the Friday fracas will be 6'6" John Jackson (number 94 in picture above), who is on the receiving end of the Indian passing attack. The Hillsboro aggregation opened its season with a narrow 14-12 loss at Lancaster BIS. During the last two sessions, however, it has posted a 13-8 victory over Portsmouth East and a 27-13 win over Portsmouth Central.

Battered Browns Ready To Limp To Pittsburgh

CLEVELAND, Oct. 5 — The Cleveland Browns, battered and bruised from their 6-0 shutout by the New York Giants, go into Pittsburgh Saturday night and nothing but the worst is expected.

In a pre-season game with the Steelers, the Brownies came out on top, but by only 10 points. The score was 41-31.

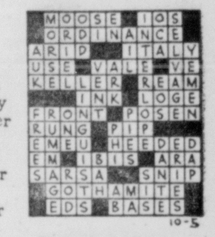

Handicapping the Browns' attack are injuries to Halfback Rex Bumgardner, Tackle Chubby Grigg and Guard Alex Agase. Bumgardner and Agase were injured in last Sunday's loss to New York and Grigg played the game with a leg injury. Coach Brown said he would like to give the mammoth tackle a week's rest.

Pittsburgh has dropped two contests already this season, an 18-7 game to New York and a 10-7 loss to Detroit, but last Sunday registered one of the major upsets of the new pro league when they trounced the Washington Redskins, 26-7.

Pitt's Sichko Not Expecting To Fumble Again

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5 — Ohio State fans may think they recognize the name of Pittsburgh's Bill Sichko in Saturday's lineup—and they'll be right.

For this same halfback fumbled a punt late in the Panther-Buckeye game last season to set up State's second touchdown and a 14-0 victory.

The embarrassed back seeks to redeem himself, however, at the expense of OSU Saturday. And the touted junior can prove his intentions if he can repeat the performance he gave for Duke.

In that game, he returned the opening kickoff of the second half 85 yards to open the scoring. Later he scooped up an unsuccessful field goal attempt by Duke in his own end zone, and without blockers, streaked to the Duke 23 before yielding to three Duke tacklers.

In addition, Sichko added 31 more to his total yardage in ten rushes. Several others were nullified by teammates' infractions.

Ohio May Hike Hunting Fee

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5—Ohio, as one of two remaining states to still charge a $1 hunting license fee, may see that last of that era today.

The state's commission is acting on a recommendation by its conservation committee to boost the license fee to $2 a year. Any increase must be made by the legislature.

Dillard Track Marks Accepted

CLEVELAND, Oct. 5 — Two track records set by Harrison Dillard, former Baldwin-Wallace college speedster, have been accepted by the International Amateur Athletic Federation in London.

Dillard, now a member of the Cleveland Indians publicity staff, ran the 220-yard low hurdles at Salt Lake City in June, 1947, in 22.3 seconds, clipping the previous mark of 22.5 seconds set by Dillard and Fred Wolcott of Rice.

The Negro track star also was given a share of the 200-meter record on the basis of the same performance. Wolcott previously held the 22.3 mark alone.

Isalys, Herald Bowlers Tally High Scores

During its final game in the Thursday men's league the Isaly quintet registered a 954-pin actual total, swelling it to 1,029-pins with handicap of 75 pins for the game.

Meanwhile, The Circleville Herald quintet also turned in a good performance during its third game of the evening.

Tigers Set For Indian Invasion

Hillsboro Pass Attack Is Good

Circleville's Red and Black Tiger football team ended its body contact work Wednesday in preparation for its second South Central Ohio League contest here Friday against the invading Hillsboro Indians.

Coach Steve Brudzinski said his young charges were sent through a defensive scrimmage session Wednesday to round out their training for the week.

None of the Tigers were injured during the final body-contact practice, he added.

Circleville will be seeking its 22nd victory without tie or loss since 1947 in its tilt against the Indians, along with seeking its second SCOL victory of the season.

The CHS'ers last week eked out a narrow 32-25 victory here over Wilmington Hurricane huskies to defend its championship title of two years standing.

* * *

THE TIGERS will round out this week's practice with drills and calisthenics under the lights on the high school gridiron at 7 p. m. Thursday.

Brudzinski added that he plans to have his boys attend a Booster Club meeting following the practice session in which Ivan W. Davis, grid coach here more than two decades ago, will be guest speaker.

Davis now is assistant commissioner in the Ohio High School Athletic Association, which governs all Ohio school sports activities.

Everyone who attends the final Tiger workout Thursday will be invited to hear the address.

Hillsboro will bring a record of two wins and one defeat against the Tigers Friday night.

* * *

A WEEK LATER, the same Hillsboro crew posted a meagre 13-8 victory over Portsmouth East, while appearing stronger last week to double the score on Portsmouth Central, 27-13.

Hillsboro will average about 175-pounds per man in its invasion, equal in weight with the Tigers.

Spearheading the invaders' attack is expected to be an aerial combination featuring Lionell Lyle on the tossing end and 6'6" John Jackson as receiver.

Hillsboro will have more depth than the Tigers in reserve strength during the contest. The Indians are expected to dress 31 players, while the Tiger roster contains only 25 names.

Probable starters for the invaders will be:

Ends—Jackson and Dave Smith.

Tackles—Tom Hummell and Ralph Lowell.

Guards—Dick Vance and Jack Kessler.

Center—Roger Hart.

Backs—Lionell Lyle, Leroy Wilkin, Dick Clements and Tom Wagner.

Ez Sez Joe Can Try Again

CINCINNATI, Oct. 5—Defeated Champion Joe Louis can have a return bout with Ezzard Charles, the new world's heavyweight king, any time he wants it.

Charles issued the offer last night when he brought his title home to Cincinnati and received a hero's welcome.

The grinning, confident champ said:

Floating Dream Sets 2 Marks

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 5—Floating Dream held two new world's records today plus her victory in the $13,576 Sheppard Memorial Stake at Lexington.

The two-year-old filly pacer's 2:00 4-5 in the second mile of the two-heat race yesterday set a new mark for her age and gait and her combined time for the two heats—4:03 2-5—shaved six seconds from the old record.

Jim Konstanty Ready To Go At Big Yanks Again

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5—Big Jim Konstanty said today that he'd like to get another shot at the Yankees and he probably will—maybe even today.

The bespectacled righthander of Philadelphia bullpen fame distinguished himself as a starter yesterday though he lost a tight 1-0 decision to the world champs.

"I'd like to go at them again," Konstanty said. "I'll be ready any time the skipper asks."

Manager Eddie Sawyer, who named Robin Roberts as his starter for the second game was asked when Konstanty "would be ready" for his next assignment.

Undoubtedly, the man who went to the well a record 74 times during the regular season will get further relief calls before this Series is over. And if it goes long enough he may even get another start.

His palm ball and slider had the Yankee big guns baffled all through the first game. The Yankees managed only five hits off him in the eight innings he worked.

Rocky Scores KO Over Burton

CHICAGO, Oct. 5—Rocky Graziano may not be the greatest middleweight ever to put on a pair of boxing gloves, but he is the fighter the man-in-the-street wants to see.

The roughneck from New York's Lower East Side came to Chicago where the punch-on-the-nose sport has been dead for some time. And last night he drew the second largest gate of the year in his seventh round knock out of Gene Burton.

Comprehensive Intelligence Tests Booked In Schools

Three Days Set Up By Educators

Exams To Give Vocational Guidance

George D. McDowell, county superintendent of schools, said three dates have been set aside this month for teacher-training sessions.

The superintendent said the Kuder youth inventory testing program was discussed during a meeting of county school administrators Tuesday in Jackson Township school.

McDowell said the tests are designed for all of the youngsters in the county system and are used for vocational guidance reference.

All county teachers of grades one and two in the county are to meet Oct. 24 with an expert to be trained in administering the test, McDowell said.

* * *

TEACHERS OF grades three, four, five and six are to meet with the expert Oct. 25, while teachers of the remainder of the grades through high school are to meet Oct. 26.

McDowell said the instruction course will be delivered by E. S. Hayes, formerly of the University of Cincinnati.

In addition, a reading specialist is to be in the county system Friday to give teachers reading habit tips.

The superintendent said the tips will be given by a Miss Ringer, a representative of the book firm which supplies the schools with reading courses. She is to be in Pickaway Township school in the morning, McDowell said, and probably will visit another school in the afternoon.

Other business of the administrator's meeting was the re-election of Superintendent Harold Strous of Saltcreek Township school as executive secretary for the administrators' organization.

Strous was reelected to serve his fourth term in the office.

Judson Lanman, Williamsport school head, delivered a report to the group of the September camp workshop in Miami university.

The meeting was ended with a report on driver training by Walter Harris, superintendent of Ashville school.

ICC Reports 'Failure' In Train Wreck

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 — The Interstate Commerce Commission reported late yesterday that "failure to operate in accordance with signal indications" caused the Ohio train collision last month in which 33 Pennsylvania National Guardsmen perished.

The crash occurred Sept. 13 near Coshocton, O., when the Pennsylvania railroad's crack "Spirit of St. Louis" hurtled at high speed into the rear end of a troop train which had stopped for repairs.

Besides bringing death to the Guardsmen, the crash injured 287 other persons.

The ICC reported that when the troop train stopped, emergency warning signals were given to the passenger train, but that they were not acknowledged.

W. E. Eller, engineer of the "Spirit of St. Louis," testified that his visibility was restricted by fog and that he applied the brakes as soon as he saw the stop signals.

The ICC investigators said that almost immediately afterward the engineer and fireman of the passenger train saw the troop train and applied emergency brakes which reduced speed to 48 miles per hour at the time of the crash.

South Pickaway Extension To Be Aired Here

A petition to extend South Pickaway street about 500 feet beyond the city limits is being considered by Pickaway County commissioners.

The petition, containing 36 names, was submitted to the county chiefs Sept. 19, 1949. A previous petition asking for the same thing was dismissed by the commissioners in 1948.

Present request asks for the extension of the two streets to meet a proposed lane which, in turn, would extend to Route 23. The lane would have to be 30 feet wide to comply with state law. A 20-foot private lane now existing would have to be taken over and widened.

* * *

ACCORDING to the petition, the project would affect lands owned by B. F. and F. Radabaugh, W. L. Pence, G. Hanchire, Allen R. Isaac, C. Stonerock, E. Wilson, L. B. Lutz and J. B. Ankrom.

Commissioners have set the date for viewing the proposed extension for 2 p. m. Oct. 16. Hearing on the project will be at 2 p. m. Oct. 24.

Cholera Virus Taking Toll

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 — The Agricultural Research Administration says that a new variation of hog cholera virus has resulted in losses of recently-vaccinated hogs.

The ARA says that many of the regular anti-hog - cholera serums do not protect against the variant when the dosages used are not appreciably increased over the amount commonly recommended for many years.

The research agency says that the new variation of hog cholera virus was recognized for the first time in 1949.

General Fund Balance Listed At $10,196

Circleville's general operating fund showed a balance of $10,196.98 as of the end of September.

City council was told Tuesday that only two more distributions, expected to run about $23,000, will be added to the fund before next May.

The city fathers gave special commendation to a report from the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller, listed at $1,158 in fines, licenses and traffic and bonds.

Parking meter collections during the month totalled $1,709.80 and admission tax collection totalled $258.70.

NAM Demands More Slashes In U.S. Costs

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5 — The president of the National Association of Manufacturers called on the federal government today to cut its non-military expenditures to help finance the defense program and to combat inflation.

NAM President Claude A. Putnam told a Columbus audience: "Let government pull in its belt, too. Let's have some austerity in government, too. This is an emergency for the people's government as well as for the people."

He was addressing the 24th annual Interstate Conference of Employment Security Agencies.

Putnam agreed with Labor Secretary Tobin who urged yesterday the maximum use of all available manpower and natural resources and the expansion of existing facilities or th building of new ones.

He also recommended financing military expenditures by current taxes, encouraging savings by sound tax policies, regulating spending power by sound tax, fiscal and credit policies to stimulate production expansion, and, finally, no deficit spending.

Steel Wage Hike Seen

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—The magazine Iron Age predicted today that the CIO-United Steelworkers of America will press for a substantial increase in steel wages, even if it eventually means calling upon a fact-finding board for the final ruling.

The publication said the union will turn down a five or six cents hourly wage increase offer which has been set as the maximum which some steel firms will go without raising steel prices.

Zion Defeats Blue Laws Again

ZION, Ill., Oct. 5 — They like their Sunday sports and diversions in Zion—especially after more than a year in which to try them out.

Residents repealed the town's famed blue laws — banning all Sabbath labor, business and amusement except works of charity and public protection—in 1949 by a margin of 15 votes.

In a second vote on the issues yesterday, the turned down the Sunday restrictions again by a vote of 1,746 to 966.

Surplus Foods Sale Booms With Korean War

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—Agriculture Department officials say that the Korean war has spurred foreign interest in obtaining federally-owned surplus farm commodities.

Since the end of June, department officials say, the government sold $30 million worth of surplus commodities, both perishables and semi-perishables, from its export sales bargain list.

The bargain program was started last January. From that time to the end of June, the government could sell only about $10 million worth of the surpluses. But shortly after the war broke out, foreign interest was stimulated and buying was on a larger scale.

Ralph S. Trigg, head of the Commodity Credit Corp. and boss of price support operations, points out that the commodities sold to foreign countries are not needed for the defense program.

He says: "This (program) helps us move inventories which are not needed in our own defense effort, and it does it in a sound and practical way."
